Dedication

To the free mind of man,
From which ideals and greatness spring,
From which individual creativeness stems, and Civilization's progress flows,
We dedicate ERINNERUNG.
Introduction

In turning these pages of the 1957 ERINNERUNGEN, you will share and we hope enjoy the memories of young Americans in the USAREUR high schools scattered throughout Germany and France.

The yearbook staffs of these schools have combined their talents and efforts the past nine years to create one yearbook to represent all the high schools. ERINNERUNGEN, meaning memories in German, covered only seven schools when it first appeared in 1949. Almost symbolizing the growth of the high school system itself, ERINNERUNGEN this year describes the experiences and impressions of the students and faculties of fifteen high schools. Although each of these schools has presented the common experience of attending American schools in Europe, it is hoped that the elements that give each school and the environment its own special flavor and atmosphere have been preserved.
To the 1957 High School Graduates:

It is a great pleasure to extend to all graduates of the American Dependents' High Schools of the United States Army, Europe, my sincere congratulations. This is a happy occasion for all of you. It is the attainment of a goal toward which you have been striving for a long time. The accomplishment is yours because of hard work and diligent study, as well as excellent instruction by a staff of dedicated teachers.

I am proud of you and I know that your parents, your friends and your teachers join me in this feeling of pride.

My best wishes go with you and may your future be filled with happiness and success.

Sincerely,

Introduction

The ideas of Europe that each of us came with vary, but the most romantic dream of childhood — the one we have of fairytale castles and knights — comes to reality in the Allgäu, southernmost part of Germany, at Neuschwanstein Castle.

Augsburg

Our European friends know where the new buildings are and where those that were destroyed used to be. At the end of the street in Augsburg is the Rathaus (town hall) and on the right the Perlachturm which were rebuilt with industry and love — two qualities we find uppermost in Europe.

Baumholder

On a field trip last fall, we became acquainted with leading European craftsmen. We discovered here in their workshop what is meant by old world craftsmanship — the satisfaction of creating something individual with a sensitive technical skill.

Berlin

We found that the chimney sweeps never tip their trademark top hats, because they use them to store goods paid in return for their flue-cleaning services.
BREMERHAVEN

We watched the CITY OF BRISBANE, the AMERICA, the STOCKHOLM come into the Port of Bremerhaven full of looking and listening people. The port is a short walk from school and has become another classroom in our search for the flavors that are internationally European.

KAISERSLAUTERN

Somewhere in their culture, the Europeans discovered the many values of theater — other than ours, watering lavens, and making coffee — and we found with them a music, a dance, and when we stood back across the street we discovered how unbearably dull the streets and buildings and even the people became if the columns of water in the fountains of Europe were to disappear.

FRANKFURT

In the arts and crafts class in Frankfurt we found that a piece of slate from the roof of a Gothic church was a material that could easily be turned into a piece of jewelry helping us to build an awareness of the potential of both the creative materials in our environment and of our own personal expression.

MANNHEIM

The roadways and the paths near school might lead into a village or perhaps back under the trees to a hidden monastery where the monks make an illegal liqueur. After school one day last winter we met a black-costumed gentleman with enormous white buttons on his jacket and vest, a narrow black-line-of-a-tie, huge silver belt buckle and a hat like a cowboy's. All his belongings were either in a net bag or wrapped in a newspaper. He told us he was a building carpenter and his costume was from the Middle Ages when all craftsmen had their particular type of clothes. As in the Middle Ages, these men go from town to town to look for work and to see the world. His pants were bell-bottomed.

HEIDELBERG

We found quiet places for being alone on the east bank of the Neckar River. There is the castle above the city and the fantastic railway running up the hillside to the right. Through its university, Heidelberg is famous as a center of learning and the old student life. Although the town and castle were sacked, as were many places in the Palatinate, in 1689 and 1693, they came through the last war unscathed.

MUNICH

There is always a Marktplatz somewhere in Europe smelling of fresh-country breads, and in the spring the breads mix with the smells of daphne and early-cut garden spices. The fall apples are usually dirty and the elderly women almost always hold their Handkäse into the sun, but the effortless smiles of these sweated ladies and the confidant expressions of the Hausfrauen remove all doubts about the breads, the apples and the cheese.
NÜRNBERG 344
In Nürnberg, the slate roofs seemed to have nestled down among one another over the ages. Only an occasional whisper of smoke in this city of Hans Sachs and Albrecht Dürer brings us back to our studies — we were ready to go downstairs to see if Dürer had completed the etching we imagined that he had begun this morning.

ROCHEFORT 446
We found monuments of stone and bronze, bridges of iron and cement, museums that have so many treasures in them. They use nearby empty buildings to store their crates of the past. We found time, too, to pause to read legends of great battles and stories of forgotten heroes and saintly ladies, and the great stone lists of war dead.

STUTTGART 478
Eberhard Ludwig, Duke of Württemberg, has overheard conversations since he was placed as a crown for the fountain of Ludwigsburg Marktplatz in 1723. On Sundays past he listened to the members of Dei-Einigkeit Kirche about the reformer Luther or the new baker down the street who puts whole rye seeds in his loaves. Just last Wednesday, two young Americans were talking about some Stallions fighting some Eagles —

ORLEANS 380
Sometimes we in France think there is something eternally spring about it — and in the winter, there is something eternally winter. In the proximity of the Loire River we found this mill apparently still in use, and we noticed the leaves on the creepers seemed painted and the two doves on the roof appeared a part of the roof pattern.

WURZBURG 526
The old stone bridge that crosses the Main River is lined with statues of saints. At the west end of the bridge the road goes for a short distance to the great fortress castle of Marienburg that was held by the Prince-Bishops of Würzburg who were also Dukes of Franconia. The east end of the bridge leads into this great baroque city of old churches and splendid palaces.

PARIS 406
We cannot write home the things the poets say about Paris or sketch the things the artists have discovered — but in our youthful method of storing away memories, we can go beyond the poet and the artist for a time and view with the soul's eye the many essences of Paris.

Index 550
We shall find a time to actively reassure our contemporaries that our contributions to the vitality and reality of an American culture may begin, and may ultimately rest, with the values we created among ourselves while in Europe.

"Footprints I have made; a sacred act.

Footprints I have made; to lie in even lines.

Footprints I have made; they are broken.

Footprints I have made; in which stand leafy stalks.

Footprints I have made; the leaves wave in the wind.

Footprints I have made; the ears cross in profusion.

Footprints I have made; I pluck the ears.

Footprints I have made; there is joy in my house".
Mighty are the gods of men
Through them hope they shall win.
“I shall vanish and be no more,
But the land over which I now roam shall remain
And change not.”

Being a very democratic group of Indians, the Apahes met early in the year to elect tribal representatives (Student Council members). We feel the council has done a fine job, solving tribal problems and planning many activities and celebrations.

YEARBOOK

With the coming of Indian Summer, Chief Helland and the Yearbook Council held a pow-wow to make plans for our 1956-57 Annual.

The next weeks were busy with gathering poems, pictures, and having interviews with teachers and students.

Miss Morello was our Head Chief until she left us to go to Spain. Our new Squaw Chief is Mrs. Summers, and under her leadership we put out the yearbook.

NEWSPAPER

The squaws and chiefs from the Auggsburg area get together to publish Tee Pee Topics, a paper that brings in the smoke signals from all around. We have gossip columns and biographies of teachers and new Apaches. The flash headlines introduce the general news.

Along the line of tribal doings we include the latest records, movie schedules, and jokes to while away the lonely hours on the reservation.
CHORUS

Strains of Christmas music floated through the halls long before the holidays arrived as the chorus practiced for a Yule Tide program to be given for both high school and elementary students. Christmas has come and gone, but the chorus can still be heard rehearsing for the operetta, “Down in the Valley”.

Richard Baker, Cecil Sherman, Lomo Finger

HARMONETTES

The Harmonettes were a credit to the reservation as they sang many times for the women’s groups in and around Augsburg.

Mr. Cathcart, Alice Kinison, Bobbie Morris, Barbara Salerno, Jackie Strickler, Ellen White, Dianna Hook, Sharron Rekord, Phyllis Hylinger, Carolyn Everette

PEP CLUB

The Apache reservation took on color during the football season as pom-poms and paper footballs sold at the games helped keep the Apaches on the war path. These sales added wampum to the school’s activity fund, but more important was their promotion of tribal spirit.

Back row, left to right: Connie Buchanan, Jackie Strickler, Mai Ors, Jackie Anderson, Chris Kea, Anne Fussens, Betty Kea, Louise Stillwell

The Apaches have done a big job in helping the medicine men at the 11th Field Hospital, doing everything from war dances to feeding the patients magic potions.

The hospital gratefully accepted their help and especially appreciated a new coffee maker and record player. Peace reigned once again between the Apache's tribe and the white man's domain after war had been declared because of insult and injury resulting from inoculations.

Bill Adar, Peyton Galloway, Sandra Mitchell, Secretary; Anne Todd, Chairman; Janet Engleson, Miss Schlesro, Janice Ojigen, Barbara Wansley, Richard Smith, Bill Todd

JETS

Between frequent and diverse chemical reactions, Mr. Valli sent up smoke signals from the chemistry lab. We deciphered them as follows: Projects pertaining to science sometimes end in one heap big mess, but all to a good and educational purpose. Microscopes and electronic devices took a beating, as did the faculty sponsor.

The tribe's future engineers have a chance to study some of the problems of going into engineering as a profession, first hand.

When the football portion of Augsburg's stalwart tribe of Apaches went on the warpath for the first time this year, it was in the somewhat unfamiliar hunting ground of Berlin. However, steeped in the tradition of their twenty-one day old lodge, they massacred the hapless Berlin Bears 74—13.

Realizing the inexperience of the Berlin group and the not exactly colossal size of the 17 man squad there was some apprehension around the Apache camp when the six man power house of Kaiserslautern came sweeping into town. Our worst fears were realized in the first half as we barely clung to a 20—19 lead, but that proved to be all for the Raiders as the rampaging Apaches went on to a 38—19 victory.

On the following week the Augsburg War Party once again got together their collapsible tepees and set out for strange lands. This time to battle Wurzburg for the undisputed possession of first place in the league.

From the appearance of the place when we arrived, one would have thought that there was a presidential election going on. Music, horns blowing, streamers—the atmosphere was decidedly festive, and it seemed that the frosting on the cake would have to be an Augsburg defeat.

The Apaches had other ideas, however, as they came back from an eight point half-time deficit to take a hard-earned 50—34 victory. This proved to be the deciding game of the league as Wurzburg finished the rest of their season without defeat.

After this titanic struggle it was not home and the comfort of their own stamping grounds for the Apaches, but off to the rainy town of Baumholder. The Buccaneers, losers only to Wurzburg, would still be in the running if they could take us. Also they were playing in their favorite element, mud. It was one of the most bruising battles of the season from the opening gun. The Apaches came off the field at the half time holding on to a slim 18—15 lead. The second half brought no relief as both defenses ended opposing drives with jarring tackles and fierce aggressiveness. No sustained drives could be put on, and scores came only as a result of long plays. Apache alertness in capitalizing on a few breaks resulted in a 30—20 victory and virtual elimination of Baumholder from the championship race. The Apaches' next encounter was one that they and many of their fans will not forget easily, and it warrants a special, slow-motion look by this review of the 1956 season.
Mannheim, pre-season favorite in the league, played with utter contempt for Augsburg's cherished 4-0 record. The weather, to make things worse, was a mixture of rain and sleet with a generous helping of mud. Mannheim took the ball the first time they got their hands on it and drove for the goal on simple, hard-charging plays which laid waste to the Augsburg defense. They scored twice more with comparative ease, and the Apaches had to forsake their normal single wing plays to manage to get on the board by half-time. The gun sounded with Mannheim on the Apache seven-yard line. The half-time score was Mannheim 19, Augsburg 7.

Mannheim scored again the first time they took over the ball. Then began the long road back. Little by little, in the driving rain, the Apache defense stiffened and held. Every so often Mannheim made a mistake, and the Apaches exercised their prime quality of the season, recognizing the mistakes and capitalizing on them until they had closed the gap and moved into a 26-25 lead. A last ditch, Mannheim drive ended on the Apache ten as the game ended, giving Augsburg their most thrilling game of the season. The final game, Bremerhaven, was homecoming, and it turned out to be a festival on the field as the Apaches clinched the USAREUR six-man championship 61-26.

As this annual comes out, the basketball Apaches of Augsburg have already taken long strides towards matching the performance of the football team and bringing home the conference championship. Loyal Apache fans may fill in the remainder of the season's results for themselves.

BUCS IN THE MUD

Backed by cheerleaders, majorettes, and strong school spirit, Coach McCanna's Buccaneers fought to a third place finish in the six-man football league. "Get the ball, boy" became a familiar cry as the Maroon and White battled through the mud for a 4—2 record.

When the Bucs travelled to Berlin, Bremerhaven, and Wurzburg, their leisurely trips began on a Tuesday and ended on Sunday. School halls were strangely quiet without the mighty football team around!

One day of initiation: freshman girls in fatigues and boots, boys in skirts and sweaters! "I am a lowly freshman" was the theme of the day. Peanut pushers, rats, and voices crooning the "Farmer in the Dell" made the day a delightful one for the seniors although the freshmen "frowned upon it."

FRANTIC FRESHMEN MAKE SATISFIED SENIORS

The Gang huddles near the gym while waiting for the football bus to arrive... cheerleaders give the team a royal sendoff... we're on our way! The Baumholder Buccaneers are off to beat Bremerhaven!

IT TAKES MORE THAN A TEAM TO WIN A BALL GAME

Before the game Coach McCanna and his team look over the field... the majorettes prepare for action as the game begins... and after it is all over, it is time for a memorable Friday night!

KNOWLEDGE COMES BUT WISDOM LINGERS Tennyson

The last-day rush of school activity: classes are attended for a final hour; goodbyes are said as lockers are cleaned out and doors closed more silently than usual. School is out! The bell will ring no longer during this, the second year in the life of Baumholder American High School.
The history of Berlin, in which our school has played a small part, is well known to the free peoples of the world. Through all trouble our school has remained ever loyal to the democratic ideals of America. Every year we are growing not only in enrollment but also in the hope that some day the City of Berlin will be as free as we.

"The future is not in the hands of Fate, but in ours."

The hands and minds of the five-member Senior Class were kept busy this year. Gail King bossed the Student Council; Bill Gilbert assisted her (when he wasn’t footballing or basketballing or NROTC-ing); Helen Hackenberg edited the annual; Dave Sobieski directed our newspaper, and Mike Otto helped write scripts for the school’s radio program.

We are grateful to our school for providing so many unique opportunities; for culture we heard the Berlin Philharmonic and saw the British actors in their Shakespearean productions; for education we visited the Industrial and Green Week Fairs at the Funkturm; for friendship we played host to fifty-six orphans at our annual Christmas party and exchanged ideas with German students; for our own pure pleasure we danced, ate, and chattered our way through the Christmas and Graduation proms, Valentine dance, and barn dances. It was a profitable and happy year.

"When one door is shut, another opens." Although the door closed on Kay Godden, Elsie Rose, Larry Hall, and George Mills, it opened for Rosanne Forame, Rosemary Donahue, Sigrid Bistany, and David Pugh, enabling us to maintain our huge enrollment of eight. The year flowed smoothly with Ronnie Rainville as president, Peggy Kitterman as vice-president, Sue Burton as secretary, and Sigrid Bistany as treasurer. Posy Osborn was Student Council secretary and did a wonderful job. As we raced around our Little America, we kept the doors swinging at the school and the A. Y. A. house as well as the Sport Center.

"Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears," this is our Sophomore Class. Under the leadership of President Walt Davis, Veep Jim Bolick, Secretary Nancy Irwin, and Treasurer Dave Davis, all of our battles were fought successfully. After many crusades Walt established himself Parliamentarian of Student Council, and Sallie represented us as Secretary of A. Y. A. Tommy, Dave, Walt, and Jim also made athletic history on the basketball and football teams. June, Danny, and Nancy made up a strong central party known as "the Brains." Pat abdicated in March and a triumvirate consisting of Barbara, Dale, and Ingrid was formed. Who dares to call us small and weak? "I pause for a reply."
"The wildest colts make the best horses" — and we have thirty-seven of them. Racing at the head of the herd were President Julie Jarrett, Veep Bruce Bead, Secretary Pam Gardner, and Student Council Representatives Sally Osborn and Betty O'Brien. Ann McCawley dropped out of our race in January but finished the art work for the annual. Meanwhile back at the ranch, we gave a Thanksgiving dance for the rest of the school (thirty-seven hosts and hostesses for twenty-one guests!) We have quantity, yes, but there are also some Kentucky Derby winners among those colts!

THE RIVER

The churning waters of the mighty river flow along like the endless course of Father Time. In the winter it is cold and bleak with the dank, muddy waters that freeze into ice, forming a crystal covering over the surface of the river. Then summer comes along and melts away all the ice, and the sun beats down on the clear, cool waters. It is then that the warmth and happiness of the season washes away all our problems and sorrows of the passing winter. The banks of the river are steep and slippery and not an easy course to climb, but once we have reached the top of the bank, and the top of the ladder of youth, then are we ready to enter into young adulthood. We may look back with regret at all the glowing memories of yesteryear rushing by, but someday we will all stand on the bridge overlooking the river, and see all the bright, new opportunities that lie open to us in the future.

We will see the silvery fish darting through the waters, like the new freshmen who are lost in the great expanse of a new world. In the distance we will see the tall, billowy sails of the boats on the river, a symbol of the sophomores who sail above the freshmen, and into a new horizon. We will view the stately lighthouse, the juniors, who guide their lower classmates, and look out over the waters toward that last year. And there on the docks, we see the proud seniors who have finished their years of high school, and are ready to board the ship that will admit them into the school of life. We see them bid farewell to the school, the administration, their classmates and friends, and most of all, to the education that has prepared them for the life ahead.

HISTORY

Our school was originally established in Bremen in 1947, but was moved the following year to Bremerhaven. In 1953 a new wing was added to the original building, and our classroom space has been steadily expanding ever since to meet the needs of the ever increasing student body. This year the primary grades vacated the building, leaving much needed space. Some of this was converted to a new assembly hall, a study hall, and a supply office.

We at Bremerhaven are proud of the fact that our school is so small, because it gives us the opportunity to participate in more activities, and to get to know all of our classmates well. We are able to receive individual attention from our teachers, and they, in turn, are able to know and understand us better. We feel that this year has been a most memorable one, for we have enjoyed the harmonious life of students of the Bremerhaven American High School.

CLASS HISTORY

The Senior Class of 1957 is the largest that has ever graduated from Bremerhaven High School. We entered high school as young freshmen and looked forward to the day when we, too, would be the graduating class. Now, at the end of four years of high school, we look forward to the moment when we don our caps and gowns to receive our diplomas.

Under the advisement of Mr. Robert J. Eddy, this past year has been a most memorable one. We have thoroughly enjoyed our senior privileges and our many activities. Highlighting the fall term was the Freshman Initiation which we piloted. At Christmas we had a jolly homeroom party and invited the Junior Class. One of the biggest events held this spring was the Junior-Senior Promenade, at which we read our wills and prophecies.

As we say farewell, we, the seniors, extend our most grateful thanks to the administration, the faculty, our adviser, and all who have helped to make our senior year at the Bremerhaven High School both constructive and enjoyable.

JUNIORS

The Jolly Junior Class this year established themselves as one of the most active groups in school and certainly the most ambitious. Early in the year we began working on our most important project, that of sponsoring the Junior-Senior Prom. We were continually busy operating concession stands, selling Christmas wreaths, and holding bake sales, in an effort to raise funds to meet our expenses. The juniors were active participants in all school activities, and were contributing factors toward organizing the Junior Red Cross, and in making the newspaper and annual a success.

The first semester of school was highlighted by an unforgettable Christmas party which was held at the home of our advisor, Mrs. Stringfellow.

We, the Juniors, are proud of our many accomplishments of the past year, and eagerly look forward to the day when we will be mighty seniors. From the lighthouse of happiness and success, we look out over the sea of opportunity, and strive to meet the educational advantages that will prepare us for our senior year.
SOPHOMORES

This year the sophomore class was fired with school spirit. We were well represented on the staffs of the yearbook and the newspaper. Many of us were active in the AYA Talent Show and performed in the skits for Health and Safety Week and for the Junior Red Cross. Congratulations to our athletes, cheerleaders, and the two who placed in the finals in the Voice of Democracy Contest.

During this second year in high school our class gained the distinction of having the highest percentage of students on the honor roll and of exhibiting outstanding class spirit in raising money to sponsor school activities.

As we are about to sail into our junior year, we can happily say our sophomore year under the guidance of Miss Manson has been one of the best.

CLASS OFFICERS

With the once quiet halls of BHS again alive and ringing with the sound of happily confused voices, the shuffle of trudging feet, and the slamming of locker doors, we, the freshmen, began our first year in the realm of "high school life". Our most exciting experience was that of being initiated into the role of full-fledged freshmen. The entire initiation week was dominated by the acrid odor of onion and garlic wreaths, and the humble, but hilarious picture of freshmen bowing to their senior slave masters.

Among the many activities enjoyed during the year were the trips to the weather station, the aquarium, the zoo, and the water works. This year, the members of our class were active and industrious participants in the Student Council, the annual staff, the science club, the chorus, and the newspaper staff, as well as being rugged athletes on the football and basketball teams.

In October, four freshmen, accompanied by Miss Manson, journeyed to Heidelberg for the Tennis Tournaments which were held there. The Freshmen Class appreciates the help and guidance Mr. Lee, our homeroom sponsor, has given us this year.

PUBLICATIONS

NEWSPAPER

This year our newspaper, the Blackhawk, was published by a large staff of ambitious students. Our editor, our co-editor, and our artist worked hand in hand with Mr. Wright, compiling the articles that were turned in, and getting them ready for the typist. The result was a well organized account of school activities, local gossip, sports events, and teenage fun. The staff thoroughly enjoyed working together, and is proud of the newspaper that their combined efforts have produced.

ANNUAL

Our annual staff worked hard early in the year, meeting on weekends and late after school to put together the pages of our edition. We sponsored a cake raffle late in January to raise funds to meet our expenses. Early in February our editor and our adviser went to Frankfurt for the annual conference. We extend our thanks to our photography editor, our editor-in-chief, our artists, our adviser, and all the others who contributed their time and efforts toward completing our annual.
The Student Council of the Bremerhaven High School was very active this year in sponsoring student projects. In December they gave the Christmas Dance at the Casino Club, and in February they gave a gala Valentine Sock Hop. The officers of the Council and their advisor attended the Student Council Conference at Stuttgart in March, where they discussed the problems, accomplishments, and functions of the various councils in USAREUR.

SPORTS

This year the Blackhawks got off to a good start in football by winning their first game with Berlin, but they failed to maintain their previous record in the games following. The team showed a lot of good spirit and fought all through the season, but were unable to keep up with the other larger high school teams. The Blackhawks received full backing from the student body at their pep assemblies and home games, and both exhibited good sportsmanship. The basketball season got under way on the 14—15 December at Baumholder, where Bremerhaven again won their first game. The basketball team looked much better than the football team, and the boys determined that they would beat their football record!

BLACKHAWKS

Yea Gold!
Early in September, a squad of six vivacious cheerleaders was elected to lead the cheering section of the Bremerhaven High School. Four of the girls were newcomers to the squad, while two others were elected for the second time. During the football season, the girls were out in the muddy and rainy weather that is typical of Bremerhaven, leading the loyal spectators. During the basketball season, the six pep-leaders performed on the hardwood of the Radio City Gymnasium. The cheerleaders were often at the bahnhof to see the boys off late at night and there to welcome them back at the crack of dawn. We in Bremerhaven are proud of our cheerleaders who have symbolized the ideals of loyalty and good sportsmanship.

FRANKFURT

Germany — teeming center of history, culture, activity, crossroads of ancient and modern; Americans — eager to watch, listen, learn, imbibe all knowledge available to those who observe:

May we rise to the challenge before us;
Make use of the opportunities at our feet;
Conquer the obstacles which hinder our pathway;
See objects of value through eyes unclouded by preconceptions;
Scrape beneath the surface of the language and customs of our international friends;
Absorb that which the natural library of landscape and architecture of Europe affords us;
Strike out for ourselves to see the world around us.

Sleepy medieval villages, fortresses tumble to ruin;
The reverent bough in an old Gothic cathedral, towering snow-capped peaks;
Lederhosened Bavarians in the Hofbrauhaus, a Fasching party in full swing;
This which lies around us may we not leave untouched,
But reach out to reap the benefits of
A visit to Europe, and the untold

TREASURES AT OUR FINGERTIPS

Students pause on the steps for a quiet moment between the morning and afternoon rush of activity.
Steeples soar
Into the golden rays
Of a sunny morning.
Even as youth
Finds its way to school
By the same light . . .
And as each of us constructs
His own tower to greatness,
Our aspirations
Seem to be ethereal dreams;
Yet youth
Is never bounded
By walls of experience
And disillusionment.
We build our towers high,
Since we are reaching
For the stars.

FACULTY

The following people have led us on the byways to the many treasures we have discovered this school year. Generously they have shared with us their own experiences. Together we have gained a greater knowledge of our surrounding world, its peoples, and cultures.

Exploring the unknown, debating the proved, and defying the accepted, they have aided our maturing. We hope our teachers' efforts have not been in vain but will become permanent in our gallery of treasures.

CLASS OF 1957

As the class of 1957 approaches the long awaited day — graduation —
We look back and remember with a trace of nostalgia
Ourselves as bewildered freshmen — the first day, the newness;
Carefree sophomores — strengthened friendships, big changes;
Financial-minded juniors — homecoming, hard work, the magic prom;
Confident seniors — college boards, rings, the trip;
The last fleeting, precious days of high school.

English literature, studied so close to its origin, influences the seniors to consider
London for their trip.

THE PUBLIC SQUARE

We stand in the public square,
And we see neat patterns of muddy, weathered cobblestones,
Checked out in neutral taupes and grays,
Flanked by buildings.
Some are relics of the past,
Others still glow with the glory of new paint,
And their enormous windows shine with raindrops.
Here the Christmas Market rises
From a tangle of boards
And gaudy colors.
A dusty little man in a battered suit
Sets up his rows of glistening baubles.
A cream and beige down dog
Noses the wet, wooden planks,
And cautiously drinks from an icy puddle.

A sturdy woman in shawl and scarf
Hangs a faded canvas awning,
And the lights that will soon glint like stars
Through the evening drizzle
Are now huddled together
Under the bulky protection of a carnival wagon.
The man who toils the year around
On a Bauernhof,
And carves simple figures in his spare time,
Is diligently wrapping green paper
Around a post.
A jagged-edged mop
Relaxes against a rotting ladder,
Waiting to be picked up again.
A youth in a knitted cap
Kneels to hammer a nail
With fingers paralyzed by cold.
The shoppers pass on down the wet streets,
Not yet interested in the festivities,
But the carnival-builders work on.

Here's a chance to improve your American history grade: a quiz.

CLASS OF 1958

We look back with mixed emotions
On a busy junior year.
First, we sponsored with success
The Homecoming Dance;
We yelled "hot-dogs" at many a football game;
The Sweetheart Ball made money as well as memories;
We sold a student directory;

And poured the sum of all our efforts
Into the Prom,
The glorious finale of a fruitful year.
Farewell isn't easily said
To our first year as upperclassmen,
But in our onward-moving thoughts
We hail with eagerness our senior year.

Man and nature long ago
Worked to make Europe
A hall of crystallized dreams,
Visions different but of great
Magnitude, existing together,
Forming an inspiring lesson of life.

The jubilant days of sophomores
Are gone with the passing of time,
But we can gaze back
And remember cares and joys.
The problem of changes, helped by
The elation of growing up;
The complexity of our schedule
Eased with the realization of "knowing how" —
From having "been here before."

Our in-between days now ended
We feel we are now prepared
To assume our places as Juniors.
REVELATION

Terrible things are happening in a far-off land
We hear of innocent people slaughtered, of villages leveled;
We can feel the earth tremble beneath our feet —
And suddenly the land is no longer remote, the struggles no longer worlds away.
The hatred and chaos of a nightmare world are brought close to us,
So close we can feel the breath of the evil spirits on our cheek.
We hear of rebels no older than ourselves
fighting and dying for a dream,
And suddenly we realize how much we have,
how light our burdens are,
how trivial our problems which have seemed earthshaking.
We know how many treasures lie at our fingertips
just by asking.
We know we can no longer shirk our responsibilities,
Can no longer dwell in a mist of ease and ignorance
And turn our backs on the world in all its dark reality.
We can now see our goal,
Lying still far ahead, but no longer obscured.
We know we must use our treasures in the uplifting of hope, the saving of lives, the reassurance of a brave people that we have faith in their cause.
No longer are we unaware of the grave, true face of the world.
But have been awakened,
And have started on the road to becoming responsible citizens of a free world.

TREASURE OF KNOWLEDGE

With value and vastness unsurpassed
Always knowledge lies quietly waiting
Used but unworn by time or Repetition by the mases.
It lies new and untouched for those
Who would use it in quest of life
For those who would have all
Which may be desired for self and fellow man.

"High school at last!" we thought excitedly
As we entered the doors for the first time.
Our freshman year was one with many problems —
Adjusting to the new routine, growing up,
Finding ourselves in the midst of exams;
Yet we still had fun —
Elections, field trips, basketball games.
Before we knew it,
We had become
An integral part of FHS.

Now that our first two semesters are over,
We look forward happily
To becoming
The "upper-classmen."

Lessons and lectures and laughs;
The fun, the frustrations, the friendships;
These belong to the classes!
The many happenings inside the four walls of the classrooms Culminate in one impression, one result -
The development of You, the individual.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Frankfurt's student council had a big year. Under the capable leadership of President Rick Webster, the representative group worked at solving many school problems such as improving assembly conduct and ameliorating crowded cafeteria conditions. The members sponsored a drive for Hungarian relief; they also planned a formal Winter Ball. Every member of the council endeavored to achieve the set goal of the organization; furthering the practice of democracy and working as an organ of student government for the betterment of the school and its students.
The yearbook staff worked diligently as usual to rush to the printer the final word about the 1957 \textit{Erinnerungen}, Editor Anita Volz and her co-workers had more than their share of problems, but eventually the worries smoothed themselves out and the deadlines were met. FHS yearbook staff members took a field trip to Frankfurt's annual book fair, and also played host to the big yearbook conference in February, where the last knots were untied. The art and literary staffs took several trips around the town, gathering material and atmosphere for the publication. Their work, with the sensitive direction of their adviser, Miss White, the combined efforts of the photographers, business staff, and other workers, produced Frankfurt's section of the yearbook.
Entering Miss Stoll's hallowed domain, we hear the noisy cries of: "Where is the layout page?" "What have you done with the stylus?" "But that article has to be in!", indicating, of course, that here is the place where our school newspaper, Eagle's Echo, has its beginnings. There are forty-three active staff members belonging to the Newspaper Club, but the real nucleus of the project is the hard-working journalism class. These eleven are duty-bound to get the paper written, mimeographed, and into the hands of the public.

The busy group took many field trips during the year, including visits to the Public Information Office in the Farben Building, Stars and Stripes newspaper offices, AFN news, broadcasting, cutting, and recording staffs, and a German newspaper plant.
Each semester a limited number of junior and senior students are inducted into the NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY in recognition of their outstanding leadership, scholarship, character, and service qualities. Under the direction of Betty Morris, program chairman; Bonnie Watson, secretary; Andrew Boyle, vice-president; Anita Voiz, treasurer; and Edna Kaiser, president, the group selected over twenty new members, sponsored a tutoring program, collected clothing and food for refugees, presented interesting and informative assemblies for the student body, and maintained high scholastic goals throughout the year.

Would you like to discover a whole new world under the microscope? The members of the BIOLOGY CLUB have done it! This club gave students the opportunity to touch upon phases of biology which were not covered in class work. Interesting field trips as well as participation in a science fair were among the highlights and activities of the year.
GOOD TYPISTS MAKE GOOD SECRETARIES

Business practices and typing go hand in hand. Miss Gross taught the girls the duties and responsibilities of a modern secretary, while Miss Grant instructed the typists in the intricacies of building speed and maintaining accuracy.

ABOUT BOOKS

The attractive bulletin board displays posted outside the library were the work of the LIBRARY ASSISTANTS CLUB. These future librarians rendered a great service to the school by checking out books, keeping the card catalogues in order, straightening the shelves, and putting away books. Both the library assistants and the members of the LIBRARY CLUB found adventure and knowledge through their associations with books and their activities in library work.

I take my pen in hand
To write about books,
The joy, pleasure, sadness
That are mine
When I turn the leaves and read.

Engrossed in a book
I am not myself,
The cares, worries I experience
Are gone.
I am content.

DRAMA CLUB

With the strains of Christmas music in the background, the DRAMA CLUB staged a beautiful tableau of the Nativity. Besides their presentations for the student body, the club learned the fundamentals of direction, make-up application, and casting techniques from their sponsor, Mrs. Brown.

ASTRONOMY CLUB

Those students whose interest led them to the study of astronomy in greater detail than is possible in general science formed a club under the leadership of Mr. Brown. The ASTRONOMY CLUB delved into the many marvels of the world and the universe.

SCIENCE FICTION CLUB

One of the unique and certainly most interesting clubs of Frankfurt High School was the SCIENCE FICTION CLUB. This club, sponsored by Mrs. Henderson, provided for the discussion of the many wonders of the science fiction world, and also gave fans of the fantastic a chance to work together toward the publishing of a magazine.
HOME MAKING

A fashion show highlighted the year's work of the future homemakers. Styles ranging from school clothes to formals were exhibited for the approval of the student body. With the help of Miss Bryant the girls have also learned the various skills necessary in practical homemaking.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

The JUNIOR RED CROSS is a major service organization of Frankfurt High School. Through drives to which the student body generously contributed, this active club collected many useful articles for the needy German families in the area.
ART CLUB

The members of the ART CLUB organized publicity campaigns, helped with school plays and program designs, and painted the stained glass windows at Christmas time. The clubs profited from field trips to local art schools and points of interest in Frankfurt.

PHOTOGRAPHY

The PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB is beneficial from the standpoint of practical knowledge gained, for the members, from beginners to professionals, have become proficient at their trade. Our darkroom deadlines have also rendered a great service to the 1956—57 Erinnerungen by taking some of the pictures that you see on these very pages.

PEP CLUB

The FHS gym resounded once again with the familiar cry of Victory! Victory! This year boys have been admitted to the club, and they have proved to have as much enthusiasm as the girls. With the tremendous backing of the PEP CLUB, our school spirit has increased and aided the Eagles in their fight to VICTORY!

LETTERMEN'S CLUB

The LETTERMEN'S CLUB is composed of interested boys who have gained their Frankfurt letter in athletics. Concerned with promoting all phases of sports in the school, the LETTERMEN'S CLUB sponsored an initiation ceremony at the beginning of the year. It has worked as a service organization ever since.

CLASSICAL MUSIC APPRECIATION

Beethoven, Bach and Brahms were the interest of these IHS students and Mrs. Frew in the CLASSICAL MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB. Living in the backyard of many famous composers helped in promoting interest and understanding of classical music. A few of the club's activities included viewing operas, watching backstage operations, and attending concerts.

SEASONAL SPIRIT

The DRAMA CLUB works at improving both the stage and the appearance of its members. Back stage members include Jody Washburn, Joanna Caifery, Jerry Eckert, Ken Steiner, Sheila Marlow, Peter Rossi, Carol Somers, and Phyllis Wetterer.

Mr. Richardson directs his Christmas Chorus in an enthusiastic practice rehearsal.

GUYS AND DOLLS

The FHS music and drama groups combined with outstanding success to produce our annual Christmas program. A small choral group, GUYS AND DOLLS, rendered several numbers in a modern song cycle, while our amateur actors arranged themselves in various tableaux on the stage. The stage was hung with glittering tinsel stars, and the auditorium was spruced up for the performances with Yule candles and pine boughs. The girls in the 150-voice chorus wore formal dresses, adding to the color and sparkle of the presentation. They sang several old and new carols, truly bringing the Christmas season to life with music and costume.
MUSIC FOR MODERNS

With Mr. Richardson at the piano, the GUYS AND DOLLS recorded their Christmas program for broadcast over AFN. This select choral group prepared numerous pieces for presentation at school assemblies and for outside groups.

Frankfurt's scintillating six spurred both the football and basketball teams on to victories. Under the leadership of energetic Captain Judy White, the girls in black and gold kept school spirit buming and the Eagles on top.

The band, under the direction of Mr. Pace, lent its support to the cheering section throughout the seasons.

TOUCHDOWN TIME

It's Autumn — the wind blows, the leaves fall, the mighty Eagles come charging onto the field! Undaunted by a first game defeat, the Black and Gold roared through game after game. The snap from the center, the crunch as bone met bone, and a speedy FHSer would be weaving down the field. (Kneck that Stallion down, Ozark, and Posey will be on his way.)

Coach Kirchner would substitute part way through the game to give the regulars a rest, but their minds never left the field as they paid rapt attention to every move by their teammates. (Hey, guys, that was a good play!)
Back in the game to build up the score, the first eleven would lose no time in gaining yardage toward the goal posts. (Saul tears through the line as Mike backs him up.) Eager fans and photographers on the sidelines supported the strong squad through every home game.

That forward wall of ours kept all of our opponents scoreless except KHS, while our offensive total kept right on growing. Triumphantely we trooped off the field after the victorious Homecoming Game, thinking back on a thrilling football season and our second-place finish.

EAGLES COP CLASS 'A' LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

The record of twenty-one straight wins with which Coach Kirchner's cagers started off the basketball season was rapidly extended to a streak of twenty-four. Losing a close game to SHS did not faze the basketball five as they went right ahead winning at home and away. The gym at FHS was packed each game time from the moment the Eagles took the floor in their snappy black and gold warmups until the final whistle. Buses were chartered to neighboring schools to give FHS students a chance to spur their team on its winning way. Eagle pennants, black and gold dolls, FHS scarves, and "Victory, Frankfurt" posters were seen throughout the school all during the season as the rooters showed that they thought Frankfurt's Eagles were UBER ALLES!
Junior Varsity

"Two, four, six, eight; who do we appreciate?" chanted by the squad and cheerleaders in the huddle, marked the end of a victorious JV game. Accompanied by the roar of the crowd, the varsity came bounding onto the court, and after a brief warmup, the game was on! Frankfurt had the ball... Saul went down for a layup... The Eagles stole the ball again and Bob charged down the court for two points. As the seconds ticked away, the scoreboard indicated that Frankfurt's Eagles were due for another victory!

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Everyone participates in sports activities at FHS, either playing his heart out on the field or cheering the team on from the sidelines. HOME AWAY FROM HOME

Across the road from Frankfurt High School stands a two story building which houses over 150 of Frankfurt's students. Most of these students live in communities near Frankfurt, and therefore are five-day dormers, but those who come from distant lands such as Turkey and Scandinavia are seven-day students. Originally from every state in the Union and now making their homes in distant story-book places, the dormers have added a cosmopolitan flavor to Frankfurt High School. Perhaps the most wonderful experience to be gained from dormitory life is learning to live with people of different backgrounds, outlooks, and customs. Friendships are made which will continue and flourish over the years to come.

What dormer can forget the housekeeping, the restrictions, the study halls, the hard work, the council meetings under the direction of the presidents, Marcia Friedman and Rik Webster, and the social events that went on in the Residence Halls? And then there were the activities after lights-out, the mischief, the Thursday nights out, and the little incidents that hold special memories for each dorm student individually. A great deal of thanks is due to Mrs. Mead, Miss Sutton, Mr. Agnew, Mr. Dresser, and Mr. Venters, the residence hall advisers who guided the students along their road to maturity.
TREASURES AT OUR FINGERTIPS

We walk among the ruined Roman walls,
The tumbled, leaning towers,
And think about their builders,
The long-dead architects who planned and designed,
The slaves who carried the stones,
The soldiers and merchants and toga-clad senators,
And graceful, tanned people who lived therein;
To wonder what fierce tribe destroyed these walls and towers,
What barbaric horde rode galloping among the toppled stones, burning and pillaging;
To gaze aloft at the delicate spires of a cathedral,
Reaching their fingers toward heaven,
And wonder at the strength that has held them there for centuries;
To enter the arched doors into the cool stillness within,
To bow on the stones worn smooth with age,
To hear the whispered prayers in the shadows,
And feel the Holy Presence;
To walk along the Seine,
Passing once in a while to look
At the books and paintings,
Standing row on row in the little stalls;
To breathe the salt air and feel
The cold spray on my face;
To brace my feet against the wave's impatient toss
And watch the empty gondolas at play;
To wander through the quiet halls of a museum,
Stopping here and there to look more closely
At a faded painting, a cracked and dusty manuscript, a worm-eaten statue from some catacomb or deserted monastery,
And think about the people whose love of life was so great they had to put it down for others to share;
To climb a steep and winding path
Past regal fountains that bend and whisper as I pass though it seems beneath their dignity,
And suddenly emerge on what seems the crown of the world,
With the panorama of Heave spread out like a patchwork quilt below;
(Far off lie the slate-gray decks, the silver serpent of the Main, the miniature chimneys that are Frankfurt.)

To stand beside a playful Alpine stream
And look high, high,
Into the silver-blue trags above,
Where misty tendrils twirl,
And wonder where the stream comes,
Which moving field of ice gave it birth;
To walk and talk and live with people of other lands,
To share each other’s knowledge and experiences;
These are the treasures at our fingertips;
Great wealth more valuable than gold from any Spanish galleon, resting in its murky hiding-place;
If we will but open our minds and grasp the treasures,
They will be ours to keep always,
Permanent and ever ready to be called forth
From the dark recesses of time past,
Not boarded and stored away,
But returning, brightened through use.

Heidelberg — it is synonymous with "the Student Prince", the Schloss high above the Neckar River, the ancient buildings, and the narrow streets... and to us especially Heidelberg American High School.

Heidelberg High School had its beginning in a building in the University of Heidelberg. This university, founded in 1386, is the oldest in Germany. By 1947 the enrollment of our school had so increased that the school had to be moved to the Bunsen Schule across the river. This school was also famous, having been founded as a German Teachers' college by Robert Bunsen of Bunsen burner fame. Here we occupied one wing till we got too big again and moved into our new building, located in "Little America". As more students were added, annexes had to be added. Heidelberg High School, as it is today, is situated on Marktwainstrasse, named for the well-known American humorist who also "lost his heart in Heidelberg". However, the school is more than a building. Inside are the students who comprise it and who have brought their customs and styles to Germany. Although those of us who are so fortunate to attend Heidelberg High will move on, we will always remember our lovely days here — the fun, the work, the friends, the experiences shared in far away Europe.

Dear Heidelberg High School,

We the seniors of 1957 want to wish you all the best of luck and happiness in the world. We hope that you too can enjoy your senior year at Heidelberg High School as much as we have.

Allow us to go back through our four years to tell you about the wonderful times we have had at Heidelberg.

A bit timid and very curious, we entered the doors of Heidelberg High in 1953 for the first time. However, we were not a class that had a reputation of being timid and we fell right into the swing of things. We went through a treacherous but hilarious initiation. At the basketball tournaments that year we watched our LIONS beat Frankfurt for the USAER championship. We closed our year with a huge party.

In September of 1954 we again entered the doors of Heidelberg High with a feeling of eagerness rather than timidity. We proved ourselves to be a memorable class by putting on numerous victory dances and a Rhine Main Skating party.

We again came through the doors of Heidelberg High in September 1955, but this time we were considered upperclassmen. The successful year began with the election of our officers: Elaine Athens, president; Gary Foust, vice-president; Betty Barlow, secretary; and Bill Chandler, treasurer. During the football season we sold concessions, pom-poms, programs, and Heidelberg pennants to make money. In December we presented "Arsenic and Old Lace", which not only helped the class financially, but also proved very enjoyable to the audience. Their Majesties, Betty Barlow and Bill Chandler were crowned queen and king at our traditional junior class carnival in March. We concluded this year by presenting the senior class with the Prom, "Golden Days", at the Heidelberg Schloss. The year would never have been so wonderful without the help and guidance of our class sponsors Mrs. Carroll and Mr. Foline.

We again entered our beloved Alma Mater in 1956 for the last time. We would see our last football games, have our last exams, and attend our last Prom. But we didn't sit around feeling sorry for ourselves. Our main projects for the year were the basketball concessions and the

Dear Heidelberg High School

We, the Juniors of Heidelberg High School, have gone a long way since we entered high school, here or elsewhere. Freshmen, we can understand the importance of that big step, and the feeling of being small and unimportant, but we must all be small before we can become great, followers before we can become leaders.

Well sophomores, you’re just one step behind us. If things seem slow now, wait until the beginning of your next year. There will be more activities than you can imagine, centered around class rings, annuals, and money for the Prom. We hope you’ve had the foresight to plan for it during your sophomore year, and judging from the price of tickets for your dance, you’re well on your way.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

Oh most honored seniors, if wisdom is due to age, you command the respect of our school and students. You’ve experienced the fright, the smallness, the pride, the smugness, and settled somewhere in between. We hope that you are prepared to begin all over again, in business or college with a little more wisdom, understanding, and composure. We hope, as you go through the years, you’ll look back on Heidelberg High School with happy memories.

Faculty, we probably gave you a lot of trouble. It’s hard to keep in mind that teachers are human, too. Won’t you be proud of us, though, when we all become Einsteins, Shakespeares, Eisenhowers, and Presleys?

To the school as a whole, our hearty thanks for supporting the Junior Class projects and may we and others do the same for you as you become “The Mighty Juniors”.

Heidelberg
Dear Heidelberg High School

We, the Sophomore Class of 1957 would like to take this opportunity to express our gratitude for a most fabulous school year, which couldn't have been possible without such an outstanding faculty and student body. Our class officers also did their part toward making this an even more enjoyable year for everyone.

It has certainly been different this year to be sophomores. As freshmen it was hard to feel an actual part of the numerous activities and events. Now we are almost as important as the juniors. We have sponsored a Valentine Dance which was a tremendous success and are already planning our junior projects.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

ROSI CURTIMAN
Secretary

One of these days we will actually be seniors, looking back with tolerant smiles on the freshmen and sophomores.

We would like to wish the graduating seniors all the luck in the world as they begin their separate journeys on the highways of life.

Once again in the words of our Alma Mater...
"...Its truth and honor leads us to the sky. May we ever guard our standards, Dear old Heidelberg High."
We, the Freshman Class of 1957, timidly entered high school more than a little frightened at the sight of the many upper classmen who rushed from class to class, activity to activity, seeming calm and sure of themselves. After a short time we realized they weren't as forbidding as we had expected. They were actually people!

As we gained confidence we sponsored a successful dance and a party for an orphanage in Manheim. We also participated in all the regular high school activities.

FRESHMAN
CLASS HISTORY

Our goal is to become sophomores, for to us these people are kings, and we even dream of one day attaining the twelfth grade and the lofty title "senior."

To the whole school we thank you for introducing us to high school life and making us feel at home. We've had a wonderful year and, although we will be happy to be over the hump, we'll never forget our eventful freshman year at Heidelberg High School.

The Lions began their season with the odds against them. Most of the team consisted of boys from various parts of the States, who had never played together before. To top this off, the school was divided and we lost half of our players.

If trophies were given for team spirit, co-operation, and good sportsmanship, Heidelberg would top the list. We are especially proud of Ken Keene, co-captain, who was named to the All-USAREUR Team; and of our other co-captain, Gary Foust, who was a mainstay of the team. Really we had a wonderful year of valuable experience for next year.
At the end of football season all eyes turned to basketball. Although no varsity lettermen remained from last year's basketball season, we soon had two very good teams formed under the capable coaching of Mr. Venne and Mr. Uech.

Special mention should go to John Howell and Jim Goodwin, two varsity players who left for the States during the middle of the season, lor they sparked the wonderful sportsmanship and school spirit that were part of the Lions' playing.

Our boys, not at all handicapped by their height, have shown far more promise and better playing than our scores indicate. We know that we have a capable team to represent our school at the tournaments and that there will be some Heidelberg Lions on that list of all-stars.

STUDENT COUNCIL

This year's Student Council began with the election of its officers. For the first time in Heidelberg, elections were open to the whole school. Nominations for president and secretary were through petitions. At the end of two weeks of campaigning, primaries were held. The top three students running for president and the top two for secretary became the nominees for election.

Under the guidance of Miss Hiney, the new officers arranged the social calendar for the school, set up lunch-line monitors, and passed or rejected the petition projects by student groups. In November they acted as hosts to a group of German boys from Karlsruhe, showing off our school, our football game that afternoon, and our dance that evening. During the basketball season they sold season tickets and held numerous raffles during the entire season.

The behavior of the Student Council has been a wonderful example to the entire school.

This year, for the first time, the full schedule of dramatics was the responsibility of the Dramatics Club. Under the direction of Mr. South and Miss Philips, the club elected its officers from forty-six members. The first production of the year was "The Christmas Doll's Revue". Many of the students went to see the play feeling rather skeptical about the title, but the pauses for laughter took up as much time as the actual lines of the play. It was thoroughly enjoyed, and days later, students were still discussing and laughing over particular scenes. Mr. South directed while Miss Philips doubled as musical arranger and choreographer. The club fulfills its purpose by giving almost every member a chance to practice the fundamentals of dramatics, from on the stage or behind the scenes.
ANNUAL STAFF

The Annual Staff gathered under the direction of Miss Frazer, full of high hopes and few ideas. We talked endlessly and even wrote a little. Ideas were hashed over, changed, and at last our yearbook for 1956—57 began to take shape. There were many problems, one of which was how to carry out our theme and work it into the various sections.

The staff worked feverishly matching names on pictures, concocting captions, and doing write-ups. It took a lot of time and effort to attain our goal but we were rewarded by seeing our own thoughts and work in print.
"How are you coming along with your feature articles, Betty? And Winston, is the sports page written up yet? Gail, when do we start publication?" These are just a few of the questions that have been coming from Gerald Berry these past few months.

This year's Student Prints staff, led by Gerald Berry, has been striving to make our paper more interesting for both students and teachers. The variety is so great, it is now possible to include the school as a whole, and not just certain students.

Our reporters include Wilberta Geist, Judy Getz, Dale Duke, Mary Field, Ginny Brennan, Jerry Sellers, Patricia Michaelis, Dorothy Anderson, Eva Campbell, Joseph McKeith, and Kit Derweiler. The staff is under the sponsorship of Miss Virginia Fowlkes.

LIBRARY CLUB

The goal of the Library Club is to bridge the gap between the school and the library, to keep the school aware of the purpose of the library, and to interest the students in the library.

The members of the club come to the library one period a day and assist by assuming many of the duties of the librarian, such as checking out books, mending torn pages and covers, filing cards, checking in magazines, returning books to the shelves, and advising students.

The club is divided into two sections — the group working for credit and the other for pleasure. The section working for credit meets once a week, and has a regular class. Most of these people have expressed a desire to become librarians.

The club is responsible for the attractive posters in the halls announcing new books to be found in the library.

The Heidelberg School Board has spent many hours trying to solve the constant problems of the efficient school. A few of the more pressing have been the menu and price problem in the cafeteria, the drainage of the playground area, the crowded classroom conditions, billeting for teachers, and the unsuitable movies for children on weekdays and holidays when their patronage is most desired. Due to the persistent efforts of this body these problems all but have been eliminated.

PARENT TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

The Heidelberg Parent Teachers Association planned a most educational and interesting program for this year. The October meeting was devoted to the introduction of the elementary and high school faculties. The November meeting was a Medical Symposium composed of Col. A. Rapański, Preventive Medicine Consultant; Lt. Col. T. Kiersch, Neuropsychiatric Consultant; Capt. J. Ryan, Chief of the USAH Pediatric Clinic. The January meeting was addressed by Lt. Col. F. Zehrer, USAREUR Chief of the Child Guidance Clinic, on the subject, “Learning the Problems of Children”. Lt. General B. Clark, Commanding General of the Seventh Army, addressed the February meeting, while Dr. D. DeGroot, Athletic Director for USAREUR, was the guest speaker of the March meeting.

The association deserves special praise for solving the problem of school health. As a result there is a regular attendant in the school building during all hours that students are present.

Located in Vogelweh, four kilometers from Kaiserslautern in Germany's Rhine-Pfalz area is Kaiserslautern American High School. Set in the midst of the largest American community outside of the continental limits of the United States, this school has the unique advantage of offering an American accredited education in addition to the stimulation of foreign living.
The ravages of time do much to change the appearance of the earth; evolution is a constant factor. Sights we view daily will slowly disappear while new ones take their places, and, unfortunately, we do not know what will perish and when this will occur.

As students of Rhine High we may discover in a few years that our Alma Mater is just a memory to those who shared its joys and difficulties. War could level its walls; a bulldozer could wipe clean its site. Many things could destroy this place where each of us has spent some time growing up. But although its physical characteristics are easily destroyed, something remains which cannot be removed by worldly means. It is what you might call "the mind's eye" or memory. The seniors, as the products the school has given to the world, will reach success partly because of the learning they received here. Their memories of graduation will not be dimmed. As each looks at his class ring he will be reminded that Rhine High was a keystone for his future.

The juniors and sophomores will see themselves working through two of the hardest years of high school, never forgetting the pride they took in saying, "We're the Raiders..." Initiation and other new problems will keep the freshmen aware of that first frightening year.

A bond which will further tie us together is that we were a small group of Americans attending an American school in a foreign country. We have been a small group, but we have been a unique group.

No, KAHS can never be abolished, for although parting is inevitable, the kindred of Rhine High will make us forever one.

Rhine High forever,
We will sing to you;
We'll defend your standards,
In whatever we do;
For honor and for glory,
We will always fight;
In studies, sports, and spirit true,
We'll support our red and white.

Stiftskirche, Kaiserslautern
HISTORY OF RHINE HIGH

Reviewing the short history of Kaiserslautern American High School, its rapid growth is one of its most outstanding features. Five years ago the school had its beginning. A few students were taught in a converted apartment building; classes were called to order in kitchens and dining rooms and girls’ P.E. was held outdoors in the snow. Soon, however, the students began to steal glances across Hohenecken Road. Contractors and construction gangs were working hard in 1952 and on March 12, 1953, the school was officially opened. In April of the same year the teenagers of the Kaiserslautern Sub-Area were ready to fill the classrooms. Starting with a group of forty, the school today has over six hundred students who hustle about their “home” making it ring with activity. Well-lighted classrooms include a science laboratory, a woodwork shop and a home economics room. There is also a cafeteria, a gymnasium, and an auditorium.

The well-equipped dormitory, constructed in 1952, houses about one hundred and seventy-five five and seven day students from France and the outlying communities of Kaiserslautern.

Besides having conscientious workers in the academic subjects, Rhine High has gained recognition in athletics. For three consecutive years the Raiders have captured the USAREUR Football Trophy; no other USAREUR high school can claim this honor.

KAHS does not lack in extra-curricular activities either; it has over thirty organized clubs ranging from the academic to the athletic. Each Saturday morning the Radio Club broadcasts “Rhine High Time” over the Armed Forces Network.

Considering its comparative youth, Rhine High has made a rapid and successful growth and has established itself as one of Europe’s largest and finest American high schools.

“A TEACHER AFFECTS ETERNITY...”

An administration... a faculty... our teachers... “Remember when Miss O-what-was-her-name...”... More than students... more than a building... more than football games and daily quizzes... Remember the teacher behind it all?

"HOW PLEASANT IT IS...
TO DWELL TOGETHER IN UNITY"

Seniors completing their courses... freshmen begin-n ing... Here begins the story of the classes of Rhine
High.
SENIORS... FINANCIERS ALL

Dollar signs for eyes, cash registers for hearts... some would have called us capitalists, but we were just seniors working hard to achieve a goal — five exciting days in sunny Italy! Three hundred dollars was quickly added to our treasury when we relinquished our senior dignity to assume the role of slaves to the underclassmen. For three days those conspirators ordered us to perform duties designed to crush our pride. Slavery was our nemesis as the once lowly frosh avenged the ridicules suffered during their initiation.

In December we presented the play, The Cradle Song. This production, the grand raffle, the talent show, and the tournament concessions were the year's major projects.

In May midnight oil was burned as we crammed for finals. However, the worry over exams quickly vanished as we raced toward Italy. Back at Rhine High again, we turned our thoughts to the most memorable social function of our high school life, the Junior-Senior Prom. Within the space of a few hours even the long anticipated senior breakfast and Baccalaureate had become a part of our memories.

Then came the climax! We were handed our diplomas and with their acceptance we knew a part of our life had closed. Though we are eagerly anticipating the future, the strength of our friendship shall serve as an unspoken promise to one another — unspoken because its warmth demands no words, a promise which will bind us in the memory of our days at Rhine High... Forever.

JUNIORS... RHINE HIGH'S MONEymakers

Understudying the top-level financiers and showing signs that they may equal or even surpass them in monetary wizardry, the juniors amassed a considerable supply of cash to ease the expenses come graduation time and the class breakfast, the banquet, and the Senior-Junior prom.

They became full-fledged salesmen early in the year as they took over the concessions at the colorful Raider football games. Frostbitten fingers eagerly snatched at those coveted M. P. C.'s as near freezing temperatures ineffectively challenged their enthusiasm.

Arms and the Man, a comedy by George Bernard Shaw, was chosen as their production of the junior class play. Fine casting combined with superb producing and acting resulted in record attendance figures, indicating that money-making was not the only talent of these senior aspirants. Financial success prevailed and fun and hilarity was evident in a class working and playing together.

SOPHOMORES... LOYAL PARTICIPANTS

Despite their absorption in metaphors, theorems, frogs, and Sophocles, the sophomores with their irrepressible spirit maneuvered their way into many of Rhine High's extracurricular activities. On the gridiron and on the basketball court, their school loyalty was displayed as many of the boys played hard for KAHS. Meanwhile, the girls on the cheering squad were along the side lines inducing a cooperative student body to yell louder.

As second year students they had little need for those coveted greenbacks. However, their money was willingly contributed to fill the treasuries of the upper classes. Participating in the senior variety show which was open to all students in the school, helping to sell tickets for the senior play and quarterback club, partaking in almost every club at Rhine High, the sophomores were a vital part of the life of the school. An exceptionally responsible junior class seems a confident predication. If participation as underclassmen found them so active, can they as juniors show any less leadership? Today they are good sophomores; tomorrow, better juniors.

FRESHMEN FOLLOW THROUGH...

Air raids, garish costumes, and thickly-spread lipstick mocked the beginning of a difficult year for "the lowly ones," that's we freshmen!

Dire warnings of vengeful upperclassmen preceded our entrance to Rhine High. However, we bolstered our waning spirits during initiation through the medium of premature concentration on the forthcoming slave sale, for only in this manner were we able to accept the agony of those first few weeks of ridicule. Then came our chance — the long-awaited slave sale which allowed us a defiant retaliation unmatched in the annals of KAHS.

Continuing our enthusiastic approach, we combined important decisions with campaign fun during our class elections. Colorful posters publicizing candidates covered the walls of Rhine High. We even outdid the Student Government.

Though we seemed to have complained much about the insufferable acts of tyranny committed by the sovereignty, we really enjoyed the attention we received; for an even worse punishment would have been to have been ignored. Now that we have had our inevitable year of submission, we are eagerly awaiting the time when we can crack the whip.

"THE WHOLE IS EQUAL TO MORE THAN THE SUM OF ITS PARTS"

A school is more than classes and teachers — more than books and tests. Add to it the flavor of activities and the spirit of belonging, then those memorable "salad days" are forever.
NEXT ON THE AGENDA

Convening weekly to discuss and map out many of the policies of living at KAHS, the Student Advisory Council held one of the most important positions at the school. Filibustering...yes! Politicking...yes! Lobbyists...yes! The council had all of these and more, making it truly a democratic governing body. Its objectives ranged from policy making to assisting all clubs financially, from promoting better teacher-student relations to raising large amounts of money for the school, from boosting student morale to improving the appearance of the building. These items stand high on the list of objectives and when coupled with numerous other routine duties, the organization found its meetings all too short and its agenda all too full. Beginning the year with campaigning in true Cow Palace style, a slate of officers was elected for the school year. Joe Raymond headed the executive branch and John Beek was the vice-president. Patti Peters and Fran Murphy filled the positions of secretary and treasurer. Important commissioners appointed were Fred Baker, commissioner of athletics; Russ Pells, commissioner of social activities; Sharon Newman, commissioner of assemblies; and Pete Smith, commissioner of clubs. When Mr. Lancaster, the sponsor, wished things to “pop,” his executive branch was on hand to initiate the ideas. Sometimes Roberts' Rules of Order was referred to when discussions became a bit energetic, but accomplishments were never lacking as was evidenced in successful Quarterback Club sales, Hungarian relief contributions, many successful dances, and the all important Leadership Conference. If bettering Kaiserslautern American High was in order, the S. A. C. had its full weight behind it.
RECORDING RHINE HIGH'S STORY

Addled by a brief allotment of time and cumbersome details, harassed students of the annual staff diligently labored under the ravings and rantings of Mr. Martin, our sponsor, to produce a yearbook which would be unequalled in the annals of Rhine High.

Many devoted busy hours already filled with exam worries to accomplish the thousand and one details which confronted the undertaking of the publication. While other USAREUR school members were "picking" their brains, we too delved into the lives of the seniors and faculty and into the doings of the classes and clubs, trying desperately to corral the information needed. As editor-in-chief, Roe Puglia gathered the workers into many meetings and accomplished the task of organizing the many parts into a whole, while Dottie Slye and her literary staff wrote until they thought of Thesaurus as a second cousin. Reggie Dow and his photographers gathered pictures and spent the weekly allowance for the cause of better and more pictures for the Raiders' photographic display. Thoughts of an approaching deadline spurred art students into producing drawings which were essential finishing touches.

A mass confusion of snapshots, art work, layout, and innumerable writeups were finally compiled neatly, a seemingly impossible task, into fifty-four pages telling the compact story of a year at Rhine High.

RHYTHM FROM RHINE HIGH

What makes a music department? Add three choruses, two bands, instrumental groups and classes, vocal classes, a quinnett, and a nonette and the sum is a total of Kaiserslautern's musical achievements. Rehearsing before school, during class hours, during noon hours, and after school made all groups competent and performances excellent. Playing at all home games, the band, directed by Mrs. Brown, added to the enthusiasm of the crowd. Singing for assemblies, P. T. A. meetings, and churc meetings, the choruses, lead by Miss Goggins, did not lack eager audiences. Climaxed by a music festival in Mannheim, the department had its "Grand Performance" making the year's efforts complete.

CHESS CLUB

Promoting interest in and providing an opportunity to play the ancient game of chess were the objectives of our newly organized Chess Club. Under the sponsorship of Miss Thomas, the eleven members met each Thursday in order to improve their playing ability and to determine the "mastermind".

Chess appeals to many people for the outcome of the game is based on the player's ability rather than on chance. During the game each participant, in his own right, becomes a tactician. Although the club was small, the members found relaxation and self-improvement in the weekly contests. The officers were: David Ballard, president; Robert McGinty, vice-president and secretary.

DATELINE... KAISERSLAUTERN

"If you're reporter, report! If you're to meet a deadline, meet it!" Mr. Martin's comments might have been so. Publishing a bi-weekly Raider Round-Up meant a tight schedule for the more than thirty members of the newspaper staff. The club was organized with the idea of learning journalistic approach to writing and informing the students of Rhine High of the news and items of interest at the school. Beginning the year with little but the willingness of the members, the club began its campaign to gather the equipment necessary for a school publication. Earning more than three hundred dollars by subscription and contributions from the Student Council, the club early in the year purchased its most desired item, an electric mimeograph machine. Stalwarts in the club were Darryl Pearce, editor-in-chief; Gail Fortune, feature editor; Mike McKenzie, sports editor; and Terry Trout, Adrienne Davis, and Sharon Newman, rewrite editors. Aided by the advanced typing classes, the club was sure that its gazette was among Europe's best.
"Welcome to Rhine High Time" or words to that effect introduced the Raiders to the public each Saturday morning. Broadcasting regularly over AFN in Kaiserslautern, the Radio Club members gained the poise and confidence required of many a professional. "Mike fright" soon became a phrase to be used only in jokes as each member learned the techniques of actual broadcasting. Student written scripts ranging from the serious school informative programs to the lighter disc jockey programs made "Rhine High Time" a favorite among its listeners. Serving as officers were Russell Pells, president; Arlan Preblud, vice-president; Mary Lou Nieman, secretary; and Russell Vick, treasurer, Miss Angela Frascona, the club sponsor, found her organization eager to fulfill the extremely important job of bettering school and community relations, informing Vogelweh residents of school news, and familiarizing the students with radio technique.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society was organized to give recognition to juniors and seniors who have been outstanding not only in scholastic ability but also in character, leadership and service. The chapter at KAHS, concentrating on service to the school and community, published a student handbook to acquaint new students with their school and established a hall pass system for students with a grade point average of 3.5 or higher. Membership is granted to those students who meet the high scholastic ability upon recommendation and approval of a faculty committee. This year the organization was under the sponsorship of Mr. Gibson.

RAIDERETTES

"Over the net! Hurry up! Knock it over!" Those were the cries heard in October. Two months later it was: "Steal that ball! Come on! Shoot for two!" These gymnastic clichés, heard intermittently between screeches and giggles, became a familiar Monday afternoon sound to anyone within the immediate vicinity of the gym. They belonged to the Raiderettes, the Girls' Athletic Association of KAHS, sponsored by Miss Hazel "Curly" Edwards, gathering for some much needed exercise in the form of volleyball, basketball, and other sports.

The Raiderettes became leaders among girls' athletic clubs in Europe as they sponsored the first play day of the year. Coveted KAHS letters were awarded to those participants in the program who accumulated sufficient points. Officers were: Roe Puglia, president; Pat Scott, vice-president; Sharon Newman, secretary; and Karen Eikermann, treasurer.

INTERNATIONAL HELPERS

Under the sponsorship of Miss Dumbacher, the Junior Red Cross has been the most active, charitable organization at KAHS. The members of the club have entered enthusiastically into many charity drives. Early in the year they sponsored a comedy skit in the school auditorium to increase their membership. In December, to help the Hungarian refugees have a merry Christmas, they campaigned for articles for gift boxes. The members have also arranged their schedules in order that they might visit the neighboring army hospitals at least once a month. During these visits the members brought magazines and books to the patients and helped to cheer them by playing games and writing letters for them. The interest and hard work shown by the club members and their officers Pete Smith, president; Carol Throneberry, vice-president; Sandra Skinner, secretary; Mary Lou Nieman, treasurer, have made this year its most successful one.

PUTTERS' CORNER

Eager to try their skill on the links, the Golf Team, although small, had its share of eager participation in pushing the little "pill" around the green. Sponsored by Mr. Lancaster, they left for the USAREUR championship tournament in Stuttgart on September 23. Although the group did not enter the team match, some of the boys did enter the individual competitions.

DRAMA CLASS

Drama at Rhine High included an academic drama class, class plays, and auditorium skits. From the classics to the moderns, from the comic to the tragic, from the serious to the farcical... all were tried by our amateur Thespians. The groups performed not only at school functions, but also for military, dependent, and German audiences.

"Little one, whom do you love?"
To understand each other better, to improve German-American relations, and to make living in Germany more meaningful for Americans, this active organization was started. Learning German customs, using the German language, and visiting famous local landmarks were the main objectives of the club. Serving as officers were Nancy Zdrojowsk, president; Gloria Piety, vice-president; and Chris Stephens, secretary-treasurer. Frau Schwipper, sponsored the club.

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS

“Well-organized” aptly describes Rhine High’s library, just as “competent” easily fits Miss Adams’ right-hand men, the library assistants. These able students not only kept the library in order, but also took charge of lending and cataloguing the books, maintaining accurate records, and keeping periodicals filed. The club met on Wednesdays and Fridays during activity period. During each hour of the day two of the members were assigned library duty.

RAIDERS RIDE HIGH TO VICTORY

Winning its third consecutive USAREUR football championship has made the Kaiserslautern Raiders the most talked about team in Europe. Eliminating many of the thirty-seven tryouts, Mr. Roncoli, assisted by Mr. Torgerson, organized his team around a nucleus of five veterans. The first game of the season against a mighty Frankfurt eleven looked like a loser at half time. However, a third quarter play added the needed spark and the game ended a thrilling and close 13-12 win. Next, in Stuttgart, the Raiders pulled out of a 13-13 half time tie to beat the determined Stallions with seeming ease. Playing against Nürnberg at the Rhino Football Stadium, the boys followed a similar victorious path. Starting the game with a seventy-eight yard return, the team had little difficulty in piling up points. Then came Munich, the next victim. In spite of an injury to one of its regulars, K-town showed its teamwork and vigor as they stampeded the Mustangs in a 27-6 count. Veering from their conference schedule, the Raiders met Paris, one of the Com Z schools, on Rhino High’s home field, gaining a fifth victory. Wiesbaden fell next to the mighty Raiders as we stomped them 41-0. Tremendous gains in teamwork were shown. The last game of the season was against Heidelberg, and although the championship depended on this victory, the team had little difficulty as the regular backs scored at least a T.D. apiece, climaxing the year with its largest score.

Ending the season with a total of 211 points against a total of 104 points, "Uncle Tom" and his Raiders deserved the calling of USAREUR Champs.

SIX MAN FOOTBALL

Kaiserslautern, the only school in USAREUR to field two football teams, enjoyed the best six man season in its history, winning both its home games. Because of its size the school warranted a second team, and this six man squad, following in the footsteps of its victorious brothers, played exceedingly well, bringing credit to themselves and to their coach, Mr. Kinberg.

1957 USAREUR BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT CHAMPIONS

Rhine High is one of the few schools in USAREUR to be represented by three basketball squads; varsity, junior varsity, and freshman. Combining teamwork with sharp shooting, the ten varsity players, which included eight returnees, made a terrific comeback to take over the top of the conference standing. Understudying their seniors, the junior varsity and freshman squads were Raider bombshells from the first. The season ended as Kaiserslautern played host to the Class "A" teams in March for the USAREUR tournament. To Mr. Roncoli, coach of the varsity and junior varsity, and to Mr. Torgerson, the freshman coach, the teams owe their excellent standings.

Anything you say, coach.

What happened?
"WE'LL SUPPORT OUR RED AND WHITE"

Were there a crowd of Raiders and Raiderettes there you also will find the cheerleaders. No athletic meeting would have been complete without the eager leadership of these cheering six. Personifying pep and personality, the girls were always at hand to keep morale high and school spirit tops. Key figures in the Pep Club, this squad has maintained the enthusiasm for which Rhine High is so well known. Conducting pep assemblies, making unique posters, originating new cheers and improving old ones, organizing dances... these are only a few of the varied activities in which the cheerleaders have excelled. This year they have prided themselves on their new uniforms which were also the acclaim of the student body. As supporters of school spirit and standards, this squad stands high.
...YELL A LITTLE LOUDER!

In order to meet the demand for louder, longer, and better cheering, the Pep Club of KAHS was organized. Urged on by a victorious football team, the club grew steadily in number until it was the largest in Rhine High. The purpose of the organization was to learn new cheers and to practice as a group in order that at all athletic contests, a nucleus of informed, eager voices would set an example for other rooters. Sitting together at all games, they imparted to the Raider teams the confidence of a loyal student backing. Creating more enthusiasm at all athletic events and improving school spirit were two goals attained by the club. Sponsored by Miss Edwards and led by the cheerleaders, the organization presented a unified group action which undoubtedly gave the players that extra push toward victory. The officers were Lee Houston, president; Dovie Houston, vice-president; Sally Brooks, secretary; and Dede Wiley, treasurer.

J.V. CHEERLEADERS

A welcomed addition to Rhine High was the election of six J.V. cheerleaders who raised the morale of the J.V. teams and worked with the varsity squad in presenting pep assemblies, making posters, and promoting school spirit in general.

SOCCER

Something new at Rhine High — an organized soccer team which made its debut in the fall and continued later as a spring sport. Coached by Mr. Hogan, the team was organized for those boys who were interested in competing with other American high schools and with German teams. The boys experienced a good season.

A mustang ... spirited symbol of the vibrant country of its origin ... America ... serves also as a symbol for 600 Munich High School students. The eager spirit of this wiry little animal reflects the energy and ambition of its native country ... of American students particularly.

In Munich, Germany, the fundamen...
In Munich, Germany is a strong corral of customs and tradition where young Mustangs learn not only the fundamentals of education, but also an understanding of international friendship.

With a faculty of thirty-eight working to instill in them knowledge, the mighty Mustangs have forged ahead, expanding and developing their corral from a private home where five teachers worked with less than a hundred students to a modern institution, representative of their high standards.

Munich High is the center of life for the Mustangs while they are here, and a fond, rewarding memory for them when they leave.

SENIORS

When the dust clears this June after the senior stampede for diplomas, the M. H. S. corral will be left with an empty space . . . a space that was filled by fifty-six guys and gals working for their class and having fun doing it.

Starting in September, the class of '57 galloped along the graduation trail at top speed. Leslie Wiley set the pace for the Mustangs with the able assistance of Kathie Kalmar, the vice-president; and Larry Kirk, the treasurer; while Dawn Miller, the secretary kept a travelogue of the class's adventures along the way. Landmarks along the trail included not only piles of exams, but also a raffle, cake sales, a fashion show, pennant and sticker sales, service projects, and a dance — the Senior Spring Frolic.

Three corral masters — Miss Estelle Griffiths, Miss Evelyn Thompson, and Mr. Robert Zibell — watched to see that no Mustang got out of step.

A trip to Italy and a gift to the school were the final milestones as the Mustangs of '57 reached the end of the graduation trail.

Starting the year off with a bang, the ambitious Junior Mustangs elected four hard working officers.

Sonia Klein as president led the class of '58 on a fund raising campaign aimed at financing the annual Junior-Senior Prom. Backing her up were vice-president, Steve Rathert; secretary, Eila Kairinen; and treasurer, Don Rasor.

Money raising projects such as the sale of game ribbons, cake sales, and the sale of school supplies and a Twirl Dance showed the Juniors' forceful spirit.

Next year's Seniors took time out from this frantic activity to contribute clothing and toys for the Hungarians' children's Christmas.

Bringing the year to a climax, the Junior-Senior Prom was a measure of the class's success in 1957.
The yearlings at the MHS corral ran true to form in 1956—'57. Helping to keep them out in front were Mike Hidalgo, president; Charles Pflugrath, vice-president; Janet Kabler, secretary; and Betty Stack, treasurer.

Cake sales in school and the sale of cokes and sandwiches in the dorms provided most of the money used by the yearlings in sponsoring their annual St. Patrick's dance and in putting on a big Sock Hop in December.

Aside from the traditional sophomore activities, the Class of '59 published a booklet of poems containing character sketches of all the yearlings.

With plenty of experience behind them, the yearlings are looking forward to their role as the Junior Mustangs next year.
The new Mustang Colts arrived at Munich High last September in a bright array of shoe polish, lipstick, and paint. Not ones to stay bewildered too long, they signed up in all their classes and started right off on the gay, gleeful life of a Freshman.

At the first class meeting they selected officers who were willing to work to make this year the best ever. The president was Ted Lewis; Vicki Gibbons was vice-president; Carole Furnee, secretary and Erika Buck, treasurer.

The big event sparking the year was their gala show, the Freshman Follies. A large cast of lively songsters, dancers and actors rehearsed many weeks for their big moment behind the footlights.

The big freshman social jive was at the McGraw Officers' Dive; the couples arrived all decked out in darts and hearts to pay homage to Cupid on Valentine's Day.

The colts financed their activities by super-sized cake sales and various goofy gadgets sold during Follies Week.

As the year closed and the colts were put out to run free for the summer, they had ideas and plans for future years when they would be the Mighty Mustangs of 1960.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The six members of the National Honor Society initiated seventeen new members at an all school assembly December 14th. All members participated in the annual Christmas pageant, "The Story of the Nativity," which was directed by the sponsor, Miss Schultz, and presented on December 19th. New officers were elected after the holidays, and plans were formed for service projects for the rest of the school year.

Officers:
Leslie Wiley — President
Jacqueline Kirley — Vice-president
Sonia Klein — Secretary
Eila Kairinen — Treasurer
CORRAL COMMISSION

Governing the Mustangs in 1956—'57 was a corral commission composed of twenty-three members representing all four classes. Lead Mustang for the season was Les St. Clair. Al Wills, as assistant leader, and Richard Spanier as treasurer helped him. Joan Beagles, the only filly officer, kept a record of herd business.

One of the first big accomplishments of the commission was the adoption of three amendments to the constitution.

Money for financing the various commission sponsored activities came from noontime candy sales. Among these activities were the annual Christmas prom and a Student-Faculty Tea held in March. As members of the National Association of Student Councils, the Mustang commissioners received membership pins at a special assembly.

With service as their watchword, the commissioners set up a system of bus discipline and launched a program aimed at building school spirit.

Mr. Frank Vahovich took the reins of faculty adviser from Mr. Robert Zibell in February, and the commission carried on to finish up a well-regulated year.
ANNUAL STAFF

The 1957 Mustang racing form broke with tradition as a staff of both seniors and juniors worked to publish the Munich section of the yearbook.

Editor-in-Chief, Al Wills, and faculty adviser, Miss Estelle Griffiths, supervised the work of art editor, Leslie Wiley, who was responsible for all layout and art work; literary editor, Aileen Woods was responsible for all copy.

Photography editor, Jeff Bell, kept the mustangs on guard with surprise snaps, while Linda Stregel and Sue Conlon set the pace for a hardworking staff of typists.
The Mustang Messenger presented the 1956-57 news and views around the M. H. S. corral. Under the guidance of Editor-in-Chief, Ron Brockway, and Managing Editor, Kathie Kalmar, and sponsor, Mr. Robert Zibell, a string of other editors worked to publish the bi-monthly news sheet.

Speedy and accurate coverage of both Mustang and world news were part of the M. M. campaign to boost school spirit. Editorials and the "Councilor's Corner" underlined spirit as the force behind a real Mustang.

Art editor, Jeff Bell, introduced "Musty de Mustang" in a new cartoon strip. Larry Kirk, Glenda Lael, and Monica Stewart were responsible for sports, news, and feature articles respectively. Joan Beagles, typing editor, saw that the copy was ready to print and business editor, Les St. Clair, kept track of finance.

Keeping up with this year's theme of service, profits from the sale of Messengers were used to buy CARE packages.

Joan, Larry, Glenda, and Ellen compare notes over the many newspaper exchanges to make improvements in the next issue.

The Mustang thespians, members of the MHS, Dramatics Club, rehearsed and produced "Too Many Marys," a one act comedy. Featured in the cast were Carol Sabey, Glenda Lael, Drena Edwards, Carol Cummings, Marilyn Richey, and Tania Wiltsoy.

Under the direction of Miss Evelyn Thompson, and with backstage assistance from Dawn Miller and Trudy Hanson, the play was presented twice in the school auditorium and once at the 2nd Field Hospital. The group picked up pointers on acting and staging as they produced other programs privately.

Literary Mustangs spent their study halls and other free periods serving MHS as members of the Library Club.

With the help of their sponsor, Mrs. Inez Hoskins, club members kept the Mustang library running smoothly and saw that all books were in good condition.

The members felt that the experience gained in library science would open new trails of interest and help them plan for their future goals.
Social life at the residence halls, our stables, started with a big "Get Acquainted" dance in September sponsored by the joint Boys' and Girls' Councils.

The girls held a Christmas party for German orphans.

The Girls' Council advisers, Miss Sarah Knight and Miss Evelyn Messmore, and the Boys' Council adviser, Mr. H. P. Balaen, worked to iron out any difficulties arising from the stables.

The Munich chapter of the Junior Red Cross got off to a good start in '56 with the election of Ron Brockway, president. The annual membership drive resulted in almost 100 per cent participation. The organization purchased CARE packages which were sent to Hungary during their recent uprisings.
MUSTANG MONARCHS

Congratulations to our beautiful sovereign, Barbara Pratt, who reigned over the 1956 Mustang Homecoming with her gracious attendants Kathie Kalmar, Jeannette Bartlett, Janet Kabler, and Beverly McDaniels.

Radiant as the theme, "Starlight on Snow," Queen Leslie Wiley and King Al Wills graced the Christmas prom. Ruling with them were Princess Aileen Woods and Prince Frank Burns.
G.A.A.

This year the G. A. A. rushed through a program filled with exciting activities. The group was organized under the direction of Miss Lorraine Secor, girls' physical education teacher. Linda Fletcher, president; Leslie Wiley, vice-president; Connie Keherer, secretary; Karen VandeVanter, treasurer; Sonia Klein, historian and publicity manager; and Aileen Woods, sports director were elected and the group launched their program of sports, trips, and aiding school spirit in various other ways. At the end of the year all those who had turned in their point sheets were awarded a Munich letter at the annual Awards Assembly.

CHEERLEADERS
LETTERMEN'S CLUB

Twenty-five of Munich's top athletes comprised the Lettermen's Club of MHS. Under the leadership of President, Jim Ricks, and the guidance of coach, Frank Ali, these boys presented football and basketball homecoming dances, provided ushers at school functions, and managed the public address system at all home basketball games.

The ultimate goal of the club was to buy award jackets for all members and to give a joint football-basketball banquet after the March basketball tournament.

Other officers of the club were Steve Rathert, Vice-President, and Al Wills, Secretary-Treasurer.

BASEBALL

The sound of a bat slamming a ball over the fence was familiar as Les St. Clair and Don Rasor batted the Mustangs to a 1956 USAREUR baseball championship.

1957 will see returning lettermen Jim Ricks, Steve Rathert, Don Rasor, and Bill Halker lead Munich to another possible championship.
TELEVIS

The tennis team coached by Miss Lorraine Secor placed third in the USAREUR tennis matches held in Heidelberg. Although there are no scheduled spring tournaments, matches with other schools in the area are being planned.

TRACK

In the 1956 USAREUR finals, Munich's thinclads took seventh place, amassing a total of only thirteen and one-half points. In the dashes George Ash took third in the 100; Bill Cash finished second in the thrilling 800. In the field events, Rex Thompson placed fourth in the pole vault. Munich's track team relay took second in the 1600 relay.

As some of the lettermen are returning for the present season, the prospects look brighter under their coach, George Ward.
FOOTBALL

Coach Frank Alt's 1956 football team compiled a 4-win 2-loss record to take third place in the USAREUR class A league.

With six seniors on the starting team, Coach Alt broke from Munich's traditional T formation and instituted a fast, hard hitting single wing offense.

The Mustangs stampeded the Stuttgart Stallions 25-19 in their opener. Traveling to Nürnberg, Munich squeezed out a last minute 26-25 victory that put the blue and white eleven into a tie for first place.

Kaiserslautern upset the Munich winning streak with a decisive 27-13 victory, but the Mustangs came back a week later to defeat Wiesbaden 19-13.

On the following week came the Homecoming Game in which Munich braved ice and snow to beat out a vengeful 7-0 win over Heidelberg. In the closing game, lightning-quick attack by Frankfurt gave Munich a 36-0 loss, the second defeat of the season.

Steve Rathert received the most valuable player award.

BASKETBALL

Led by the scoring of Steve Rathert and the outstanding defensive playing of Frank Burns, the Munich five compiled a 6-win 2-loss record by press time.

The Mustangs opened the season by defeating Stuttgart, 49-42. Win number two came as Nürnberg fell to Munich 53-36. Then the Mustangs suffered a bitter defeat at the hands of Kaiserslautern, 58-56.

A 48-38 win and a 56-46 win over Heidelberg put Munich into a three way tie that became a two way tie with a 46-41 victory over Frankfurt. Wiesbaden was hardly a match for the Mustangs as they took a 52-48 beating.

But victory was once again stolen from Munich's grasp as Stuttgart barely edged the mighty Mustangs 37-35.

With only three games remaining, the team looks forward to winning them and then going on to the USAREUR basketball tournament for a try at the championship.

Coach Frank Alt can be very proud of his team's showing since this is his first year at Munich.

Nürnberg American High School has seen a decade go by — ten years of faculties and students, school books and exams, sports and club activities. This school year of 1956—1957 has been a rewarding one for the students of NHS. With the help of our excellent principal, faculty, and office staff we have not only acquired the rudiments of learning and have been an active student body, but also have come closer to the culture and tradition in the atmosphere which surrounds us.

THE SENIOR CLASS OF NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY SEVEN

The Senior Class of 1957 has many fond memories of their final year in Nürnberg High School. One half of our class was new to Nürnberg High so the first week was spent in getting acquainted with our fellow classmates.

To start the year off, we elected the class officers of the year — president, Chickie Mazares; vice-president, Jim Malone; secretary, Nikki Sue Whitney and treasurer, Judy Hett. Once this was accomplished we began big plans — among them the carnival, the senior class play and the senior class trip. Then we watched these plans grow into reality. Yes, this was a great year for the class of '57, but ahead lies an even greater future — that of businessmen, chemists, engineers, nurses, secretaries, reporters, and homemakers. And throughout the years we will look back and cherish our high school days and the friends we made.

JUNIOR CLASS

On September 5, 1956, forty-two members of the Junior Class met in two homerooms, sponsored by Mrs. Rosin and Mr. Minasian. We started the year's many activities by electing our class officers, with Dick Walterhouse as president; Howard Chipman, vice-president; Lore Walters, secretary; and Linda Mapplebeck as the treasurer. From then on, everything was planned with one goal in mind: the Prom. When spring and Prom time came around, the results of all our hard work really showed up; the Senior Class sincerely appreciated the year's efforts.

We Juniors of 1957 are looking forward to our senior year and feel confident that we will continue to write the chapter of Nürnberg High School's history which we began as Juniors.
Sophomore Class

The Sophomore Class of '57 really got the year off to a good start. First, the two homerooms held a joint meeting and elected class officers to represent the whole class.

No sooner had we elected our officers than it was time to decide on what booth we wanted at the carnival. After much deliberation on the part of both classes Mr. Smith's homeroom decided on a German version of the "Wheel of Fortune," and Mr. Pederson's room decided on a "Cake Walk."

After the carnival we started planning the sophomore dance. We are happy to say that the dance was a huge success.

As you can see the Sophomore Class of '57 was very busy. And as far as the Sophomore can see a very successful and eventful year was enjoyed by all.
FRESHMAN CLASS

The class of 1960 enjoyed the school year very much, starting with the initiation at the beginning and ending with the last day of the school year!

All the Freshmen were glad to be a part of Nürnberg High School and know they will enjoy the years that follow.

Thirty-eight girls and forty-six boys found a home away from home in the Nürnberg High School Dormitory (alias Residence Hall!) this year. Our three supervisors, Miss Padovan, Miss Russell, and Mr. Burton, often discovered themselves acting as advisers, teachers, and parents to us teenagers. What would we have done without their help!

The dormitory itself is commodious and attractive with the new annex, a comfortable lounge, and our own dance floor. All of our meals were served in the school cafeteria and no one, but no one, says there was not enough to eat. It was an interesting and valuable experience for us to live away from home, especially here at NHS.
ACTIVITIES

The purposes of the extra curricular activities in Nürnberg have been to form a well rounded and mature personality, to help people of the younger set to get along with others of their own age, and to set the basis for a future career.

Starting with the first kickoff in football and continuing till the last basketball was thrown, Nürnberg's cheerleaders had an eventful and exciting year. These vivacious gals, captained by Chickie Mazaras, worked together throughout the year and spirited the Eagles to victory in many games.
CHEERLEADERS

Letterman's Club made a good choice... we all agree!
The Eagles ran over Munich in the first half of the opening game only to be defeated by a slim margin of 26—25 in the last quarter. The second conference game of the season resulted in a smashing defeat for the Eagles — Kaiserslautern 31, Nürnberg 13. This defeat put some backbone into the brave, highflying Eagles who came back to win over Wiesbaden, 25—13. The brilliant win over Heidelberg, 6—0, brought roaring cheers from the faithful fans. The Frankfurt Eagles won the fifth game, 19—0. This upset disheartened our team tremendously, resulting in the loss of our final game with Stuttgart, 33—7.

FOOTBALL '56

Victory in progress.

All aboard!

Their time will come.
On game days the post gym is always packed.

BASKETBALL 1957
On a brisk October day the pounding of basketballs began as Nürnberg’s basketball team, under Coach Nicolai, prepared for the court season. Nürnberg’s schedule was made up of class A teams: Munich, Kaiserslautern, Wiesbaden, Heidelberg, Frankfurt, and Stuttgart. The season climaxed with the USAREUR tournaments held in Kaiserslautern.

INTEGRATED SPORTS

Our inter-school and intra-mural sports programs are comparable to any stateside school with a higher enrollment. The major sports this year were football, basketball, baseball, and track. The girls here at NHS were very active also with intra-mural basketball teams and several playdays with other schools.

SENIORS

The years dealt kindly with this senior class since we entered OHS as freshmen. Many of our number has dropped out and their places have been filled each passing year; acquaintances have deepened into friendships which have prevailed as time crept on. As we approach the goal of our many days at OHS we begin to think of the good times we have had in working and studying together. It would give us the greatest pleasure to reflect on our Alma Mater the knowledge it has given us by some achievement in the future. Time has slipped by too swiftly, and now we find ourselves about to graduate. So with this our senior career ends; not in a blaze of glory, perhaps, but it has proved to be a year in our lives we shall remember pleasantly for a long time. So we say Au revoir knowing the memory of the class of '57 will live forever and that someday somewhere we may meet again.

As freshmen we entered — not well aware.
As sophomores we knew, but — too lazy to care.
All play and no work — that's how it begins.
But this drew to a close
As a voice arose
With "Now you are JUNIORS, my friends."

A long line of problems came all too soon.
The first on the list was the "Trojan Tribune."
Then cake sales and parties; we worked 'til the end.
But the year quickly passed
And our Prom came at last.
The work of the JUNIORS, my friends.

But though we complain; it must be confessed,
That all of us feel, this year's been our best.
So, sophomores, you better start making amends
'Cause next year you'll pass
To the school's greatest class.
Then you'll be the JUNIORS, my friends.
The Sophomore Class of 1956 and 1957 is facing the problem of ways to raise money for their future years in high school.

Next year they will have the responsibility of giving the Junior and Senior Prom, and also of publishing the school newspaper.

Their latest project is sponsoring the queen for the Valentine Dance.

The Sophomore Class plays an important part in the school as they are the second largest class.
The Freshmen Class of 1956—1957 is the largest in the history of OHS. We have two home rooms and two sets of officers; the teachers work double time with two algebra and English classes.

One student council representative is chosen from each home room. With this representation, the freshmen have a voice in school government.

The class is composed of two large elements: one half consists of veterans of last year; the other half are welcomed newcomers. The principle interest of the class was money raising activities, done mostly by collecting dues and having cake sales.

We have been well represented on the honor roll, the newspaper staff, in clubs, and in athletics. We hope that next year will be as successful as this one.
STUDENT COUNCIL

The main objective of the Student Council is to promote unity and school spirit among the faculty and students. Its' unwritten laws stress democracy and freedom, the ideals of the United States. As with any such body, the Orleans High Student Council strove throughout the year, not only to raise money and coordinate activities, but also to prove itself a working example of American ideals.

Led by President Pat Curran, the sixteen members of the group met once a week for regular meetings and once again in committees. Larry Magee took the place of the president when the need arose. The secretary, Tish Brit, kept minutes and corresponded with other USAFEUR high schools. "Money bags" were guarded by Bill DeGarmo. Under the sponsorship of Miss Rosemary McNamara, the council organized a booster card sale to send the team to the tournaments, maintained order in the snack bar at noon, and sponsored the Homecoming Dance, as well as the other activities needed to guide OHS.

In its third year of action, the Student Council has proved itself a leader of the finest quality. The entire student body, and the OHS faculty are proud of the students they chose in September to be their leaders, and proud, indeed, of the constant guidance and assistance given them by the 1956-1957 Student Council.

DRAMA CLUB

The Drama Club of OHSS started this year with one major problem—not enough men. The group began by considering a play which would require only females in the cast, but this did not work. The first production of the season was a Christmas play in one act for the P. T. A. People were required to play the male parts and more interest was shown within the club itself.

The next productions were a series of one-act plays with student directors. The casts of the plays were composed of mainly Drama Club people with outside volunteers. These plays were presented in cooperation with impartial people judging them on the basis of acting, directing, and production.

BAND

This year Orleans High formed their first Band with Mr. Ecker as the director. The Band is composed of twenty boys and two girls. The Band played for the P. T. A. Christmas program. Their future plans are to play at our last basketball game.

CHORUS

The Chorus was started in the fall of 1954 and has been a very progressive group. Although they are small in number, the quality of their work has proved to be outstanding.

The musical year of the Chorus will prove to be quite complete. At Christmas they participated in the annual P. T. A. program, where they gave their interpretation of some favorite Christmas carols. The future holds a brightness as the Music Festival draws near.

For these and many other fine performances to follow, the faculty and students of OHSS wish to say a plain, but well deserved, “Thanks.”
CHESS CLUB

Orleans High School has had a Chess Club every since its beginning and in its three years as a club, it has shown startling gains. This year, the Chess Club's meetings were not formal; there were no elected officers. The organization met twice weekly in the afternoon. The club had about twenty members, and membership was open to students from grade nine through twelve. Mr. A. Johnson was the club sponsor.

HI-Y CLUB

This is the second year of the Hi-Y Club. The club was formed by Mr. Conrad and its main purpose was to develop leadership among its members. They learned to assume responsibility and to work as a unit, and in so doing, they found that the reward of what they accomplished increased their abilities in studies as well as social activities. Meetings were held once every two weeks. The programs were extremely interesting, and included an informative lecture on the functions of the C. I. C. and another lecture on the Russian people.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

The Photography Club started with several camera-equipped boys. Through hard work they improvised some practical photographic equipment and built their own dark room. Their main objectives were to develop a proficiency in picture-taking, to learn developing methods, and to improve their retouching techniques.
ASTRONOMY CLUB

The members of the Astronomy Club have discussed subjects such as life on the other planets, the expanding universe and Einstein’s space theory.

They had a contest on astronomical subjects and several committees were formed to do research on various subjects based on their discussions.

SCIENCE CLUB

The Science Club was new to OHS this year. It was sponsored by Mr. Rossier and met every Monday and Wednesday during activity period. Although a very small group, the Science Club had large plans and accomplished much this year. Their projects covered almost every major branch of science and some of the members entered their pet projects in the Science Fair.

ROD and GUN CLUB

The Rod and Gun Club members tried to acquaint themselves with different rules and methods of hunting and fishing. Since then they have made many reports that pertain to the subjects.

One of their most important and profitable meetings was honored by the presence of a firearms specialist, who taught them many things about weapons. They learned about the care, handling, and general use of these weapons.

ART CLUB

The Trojans six-man football team, despite their three losses, showed great improvement. The team lost to the Paris Pirates early in the season by 24-7 at Orleans. From this experience we went on to face the Rochefort Rockets and lost by only two touchdowns. The Trojans, still with plenty of football spirit in them, were looking forward to upsetting the league champions, the Chateauroux Sabres; they proved to be too powerful.

In spite of the losses, much valuable experience was gained by the team.

TWIRLERS

Adding a spot of color to the pageantry of Orleans' sports events was the newly formed team of baton-twirling Majorettes who have quickly taken their place on the roster of OHS traditions. Under the direction of Mr. Ecker, these high-stepping girls exhibit their polished routines at Pep assemblies and games.
The Trojan Basketball squad, shooting for the 1956—1957 Com-Z title, began practice drills early in December. In the league openers the men of Troy split with the Rochefort Rockets 55 to 46 and 40 to 49. The following week the Trojans defeated the Paris five 50 to 44 and 48 to 46 on the Orleans home court. Many thanks are given to Coaches Larson and Shapiro for having given much of their time and effort to train the boys.

SERGEANT CLYDE MONG
Supply Sergeant
Could we but turn back the yesterdays and relive the rapture of mementos bygone. The years slip by and only anecdotes remain untouched by oblivion. Our bright years were happy years; their incidents need only stimulus to retain the vividness of reality.

As high school graduates, we look with renewed pride at four eventful years; for indeed, they were brilliant years. Yet to our senior year we credit the greatness of high school. It was the zenith of all four — gay, humorous, trying, perplexing; and above all, it was the year we shared.

For many of us, September brought the task of readjustment, coupled with bewilderment and uncertainty, a normal reaction to change. We called our class the great amalgam. Hoosiers, Buckeyes, and even Virginian gentlemen met at these famed Parisian crossroads.

Dormitory students made their debut that fall. Besides the dormitory buildings, a new gymnasium had been built. We had thought of sending the constructors a thank-you note for remembering to build a roof. This wasn't absurd when one considers the three years they took to build the walls.

The trials and tribulations of senior year far exceeded our expectations that season. Within three weeks, we became acutely aware of the local Three H Club — Hull, Harvey, and Hades — the third being the offspring of the first two, and at the same time, the essence of our worry. However, to these gentlemen we owe a great deal.

The Freshman Initiation will always bear special significance in our senior class memories. A new class of Freshmen had been ushered into the realm of secondary education that autumn. For them the prize was yet four years away; for us, it had been virtually won.

The thought had always evoked a warmth and gladness — a feeling that blossoms in fullness only when the party is over and all the decorations have been removed, a feeling that the vitality of this great system of American education will last as long as America itself; that there will always be high schools dotting the countryside, and cities like towers of Babel in all their splendor, and that they will remain a heritage as great as the American Bill of Rights — these were the hopes induced by that new crop of Freshmen, and we cherish them.

The Christmas-tide had caught us unawares that year. Formals had to be pressed, piggy banks were drained, Christmas cards were sent and received by the thousands, and in the very air could be felt the pulsations of the whole student body as the spirit of Christmas coursed through its veins. By Twelfth Night, however, the intoxicant had waned, and the resulting vacuum was quickly filled with feverish study and personal sacrifices in view of the approaching exam-week.

By the time the cafe tables reappeared on the Parisian sidewalks, we were already pondering the big event — graduation. The last four months went by quickly. Our anxieties flared to new heights, and here and there one of us could be found kicking over the traces, releasing the surplus vitality that accompanies every spring.

June came in all its glory, and with it came the traditional senior trip to London, equipped with all the pageantry and brilliance of William's crossing in 1066. We returned and were graduated.

We had left the only world we knew. Nothing remained but the anecdotes, which we could piece together in the future. We were melancholy, yet we were somehow glad; for, indeed, parting will always be sweet sorrow.

The 1956 football season, while not too impressive by the number of victories attained, was one that achieved much respect for future Paris teams.

The first game, against Orleans, found Paris with only one scrimmage before leaving for the South. Although we made many mistakes, we fought our way to a 24–7 win.

After this victory, we traveled to Kaiserslautern to tangle with the two-time USAREUR Champions. This was the first time that teams from France and Germany had played each other in football. Paris put up a valiant try but was downed by the future 1956 USAREUR Champions, 21–0. While losing this game, Paris warned other teams in Germany to be on the lookout for the French Conference teams.

Our next game was with Chateau, this year’s Com-Z Champions, and ended with Paris on the short end of a 24–13 score.

Rochefort came to Paris for the final game and was badly outplayed by a hard-hitting Paris team, although the score was only 20–14.

The basketball team got off to a rather slow start, having completed the first half of its schedule with three wins in seven starts.

The first win came at the expense of Chateauroux, as the Pirates came from behind in the last minute to emerge victorious by the score of 54—51. Junior Don Newell paced the winners with nineteen points. In the first game Chateauroux had surprised the Pirates, 57—45.

Next, Paris took the road to Orleans, but returned the losers. The Pirates lost the first game by a score of 50—44 and held down the short end of a close 48—46 score in the second.

The next game proved to be a memorable one, as the Parisian quintet christened the new gym with a 40—35 victory over Rochefort. Colonel Lawson gave his best wishes to the team as he dedicated the gym in a halftime ceremony. The following day, however, the visitors surprised the Pirates by pulling ahead early in the second half to win the second game 38—32. The third victory came as the hungry Pirates gobbled up the American Community School by a score of 68—42. Senior Gary Baber took the scoring honors with nineteen points.

SENIORS

"O'call back yesterday, bid time return" — SHAKESPEARE

It has been a busy and a happy year for the seniors.

"What, No Christmas", our senior assembly play, drew enthusiastic applause at its two performances. Functioning in the triple role of choreographer, makeup man and director, Mr. J. F. Carson gave inspired leadership to our hardworking cast.

Never wavering from our unanimous determination to go to London in the spring, we engaged in a vigorous campaign to raise funds in every possible way. The most entertaining fund-raiser was a senior slave sale held in October. Class sponsor Mr. Dahl auctioned off along with the rest, and four enterprising juniors bought shares in him for a total bid of $4.25. A cake sale followed — a cake from each of us was cut and sold to hungry underclassmen. By sponsoring the Christmas Formal, we added substantially to our fast-growing kitty. Candy and soda-pop sold every noon kept a steady stream of small change dropping into our treasury. In May the goal was reached. We visited London.

Carrying away with us these memories, we separate regretfully and go our several ways.

“Writ in remembrance; more than things long past.” — SHAKESPEARE

We slave-owning Juniors had a chance to get a return on our investments in senior slaves in October when we staged a game of Truth or Consequences as our assembly program. Hidden talent came to light when Seniors good-naturedly entertained with singing, dancing, cheering, and marching as their consequences. A highlight was the uncertain singing of “Dixie” by Californian Mr. Dahl.

Two cake sales on Monday noon were money-making ventures.

The traditional Sadie Hawkins dance was held in November. Votes for the candidates for Daisy Mae and Little Abner were sold at a penny a vote for one week preceding the dance. A mock parson united 11 couples with doughnut rings in mock wedding ceremonies.
"Mine honour is my life: both grow in one." — SHAKESPEARE

Our Sophomore Bon Jour Ball opened the social season for Rochefort students and faculty. Our sale of pom poms at the first football game of the season gave an initial spurt to the class spirit which remained at high level throughout the year. Forty strong, we took part in all school clubs and provided 14 lettermen.

Our assembly programs both were skits. "Life at Rochefort" poked a bit of fun at our popular teachers. "Movie Album" dramatized titles of movies. Hits of the program were "By the Waterfall" and "The Cherokee Strip".

Our main spring social event was the April Hop.
"Through sense and non-sense, never out nor in" —
DRYDEN

October spelled doom for us Freshmen as initiation approached. In charge of Seniors, initiation was a tug of war to prove on one side the power invested in twelfth graders and on the other side the sportsmanship of the newcomers. We boys wore earrings with nonchalance; we girls surrendered the priviegle of cosmetics and pincurls in good humor. Sixty of us presented egg shells for the signatures of 16
Seniors as momentos of our first weeks at Rochefort.
From exact zero our class treasury grew to $ 80.00
by midyear as dormitory Freshmen zealously prepared and sold sandwiches for night-time dormitory snacks.

Split into two homerooms, we worked as a unit under the Freshmen Activity Committee. Both of our assembly programs were well received — a serious Thanksgiving play entitled "A Day of Thanks" and an original skit satirizing the mythical visit of a supervisor from USAREUR. From our ranks came the accompanist for many of the year's musical functions.

It was only an accident that our St. Patrick's Day dance had a green shamrock as its motif.

"What shall we do about those cuts?"
... trade is in wood, cereals, salt and coal.
This was Rochefort’s second year of football. Coached by Mr. Bova of Southern California and Mr. Langenderfer of Purdue, the squad borrowed the playing field of a local military academy and used the boys’ dormitory as a locker room. Losing to Chateauaux by a score of 51—0, Rochefort won its second game over Orleans 27—13 and ended the season with a loss to Paris 20—14.

FOOTBALL
In their second season the soccer eleven won second place in COM Z conference play. Mr. Carson of Texas Western acted as coach. The season began with a 2—2 tie with Chateauroux; the next encounter ended in a 6—0 victory over Orleans; then came a 4—10 defeat at the hands of a local French secondary school team. The season was brought to conclusion with a defeat by Paris, 4—1. The team used the playing field of a French military academy at the outskirts of Rochefort.

Rochefort vs. Paris.
Rochefort has had a varsity basketball team since the school was started and has successfully competed with other USAREUR quinters. This year's team was coached by Mr. Bova and Mr. Abazio. The squad is fortunate enough to have access to the Special Services gymnasium on Arsenal grounds, located a short distance from the campus. Although it is unheated, the mild climate of the Bay of Biscay area insures good attendance at our home games. Prospects for the coming year are very bright. It is hoped that all players in the starting lineup will return to school next fall.
Cheerleaders worked hard to maintain school spirit.

ANNUAL

Relentlessly, the editorial staff of the Annual kept club members adhering to a rigid schedule of deadlines for photography, art, copy-writing, layouts and typing. Photographers tramped about the environs of the school to record our European setting; typists made their fingers fly; artists bent over drawing boards in silent absorption; writers wrote and rewrote; layout workers arranged and rearranged. It all added up to our end product — the story of Rochefort High in 1956/57.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council functioned democratically as the student governing body. Under the supervision of the principal, it made up the school social calendar and regulated school functions. It also heard grievances presented by representatives of various classes.
NEWSPAPER

"O what a brave thing it is, in every case and circumstance of a matter, to be thoroughly well informed", said Rabelais; and so said members of the Newspaper Club at Roshfort who achieved a weekly newspaper for the first time in the history of the high school. It wasn’t easy. There was a scramble for operative typewriters; the temperamental mimeograph machine needed coaxing; and fledgling reporters had to be taught their trade. Sold like hot cakes on a cold morning, the ROCKET was a financial and literary success.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

An affiliate of the National Honor Society, the local chapter of honor students had a membership of six juniors and seniors selected by the faculty on the basis of scholarship, leadership and service.
PEP CLUB

Steadily generating school spirit, the dynamic Pep Club gave unflagging support to the athletic teams, majorettes and cheerleaders. Their victory dance, following the football game with Orleans, was the high spot of their social season.

JUNIOR-SENIOR CHORUS

Not a group to hide its light under a bushel basket, nor its music in a sound-proof room, the Upper Division Mixed Chorus made lusty music during the sixth period twice a week. The partitions trembled; the windows rattled; auditors lingered appreciatively in the corridors. The Spring Music Festival in Mannheim was a tempting goal, and the chorus worked diligently under the tutelage of Mr. Moore, music teacher.

FRANCO-AMERICAN CLUB

Franco-American relations received a boost every Thursday afternoon when students from two French high schools in Rochefort came to the American Arsenal to chat informally with students in Madame Massard's Franco-American Club. On occasion, when conversation lagged, students from all three high schools retired to the recreation hall where they expressed themselves more rapidly in a language that requires no translation — terpsichore.
LETTERMEN

Rochefort lettermen were selected by the coaches and the principal from soccer, basketball and football teams. They were awarded a block letter "R" in purple and white, which will be worn on jackets of the same colors.

JOINT DORMITORY COUNCIL

The Joint Dormitory Council served as the student governing body for 74 students who lived in dormitories on school grounds for five days a week. These students arrived by school buses and staff cars on Sunday afternoons from points as far south as Captieux and as far north as St. Nazaire. The dormitory counselors, Miss Crandall and Mr. Cobey, were sponsors.
SCIENCE CLUB

Their aim to develop the scientific attitude; their methods to make individual reports based on laboratory and library research; their results an increased interest in science — this sums up the year's activities of the members of the Science Club.

Membership in the Junior Red Cross Club was made up largely of younger students. Full of enthusiasm, they had a varied schedule of activities for the year. Under the tutelage of Miss Beauford, they learned to knit, conducted panel discussions on health problems, exchanged gifts at a Christmas party, and filled Christmas stockings for a local orphanage. A first-aid course was given the second semester.

MUSIC CLUB

The Music Club functioned to meet a variety of musical interests. Some time was spent on group singing and on developing a vocal trio and a sextette. They listened to popular and light classical recordings which members brought from their homes. On the schedule for the second semester was an opera at Bordeaux, which is three hours distance from Rochefort by automobile and has a fine reputation in French musical circles.

and historic settings, is located amid the forests and green hills of Schwäbia.

a school with a purpose
This year saw our school take a step forward in the role of good-will ambassador as it actively sought better community understanding.

Prouder achievements may perchance appear elsewhere than signalize our humble sphere. But newer nowhere underneath the sun. We see in prettier outlines on our stage, which miniatures the world of every age, the storied feats of bypassed eras done. All things are but redone, reshown, retold. Fancy alone is ever young and new; Men and the universe shall both grow old, but not the forms her pencil drew!

Frederick von Schiller
A school of loyal students and many events, a personal drama of strong longings, a cavalcade of ideas, a story of high aims and great achievements — this is STUTTGART!

THE STUDENTS OF STUTTGART HIGH, NUMBERING FIVE HUNDRED, ARE PROUD OF THEIR SCHOOL, JUST IN TIME FOR THE 1955 SCHOOL YEAR, AND ARE GRATEFUL FOR THE PLEASANT EXPERIENCES SHARE WITH YOU.
"The 1956-57 school year has seen many pages added to the history of our school. The four-year plan has been replaced by the six-year plan as the student enrollment has doubled. The opportunity of attending an American school and gaining invaluable educational experiences through travel while being in Europe has given breadth and depth to our activities. The conscientious effort of the faculty, the seriousness of the purpose of the student body, and the faith which we have in our educational process have continued to be the guiding light which has given direction to our efforts."

STUTTGART HIGH SCHOOL
STUDENT COUNCIL STRIVES FOR SCHOOL BETTERMENT

Stuttgart High, like any society, must have certain laws and a governing group to enforce these laws and make others when the need arises. The chief functioning body of the student government is the Student Council, a representative body comprised of elected student body officers and home-room representatives from grades seven through twelve. Mr. Bernard Siegel, vice-principal, is adviser of the group which meets every Monday.

After a revision and adoption of the Constitution, the group attended to the matter of a spirited election of student body officers. Elected were Jim Williams, president; Anne Spearman, vice-president; Harold Bunshaw, secretary; Tom Clarke, treasurer, and Bill Bonifay, sergeant-at-arms. Vacancies left by Jim Williams and Bill Bonifay were filled by Anne Spearman as president, Gordon Clarke as vice-president, and Liz Conlin as sergeant-at-arms.

In addition to routine tasks, the Council actively sought a solution to the noontime lunch problem by suggesting that the cafeteria go on a Snack Bar basis. As Christmas neared, attention was focused on the Christmas Formal which the Council sponsored on December 21. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the King and Queen. The Council also sponsored three night basketball games and as well as school assemblies throughout the year.

Stuttgart was host to the annual Student Council Conference on March 29 and 30. Four members from each of the high schools in Germany attended. This successful conference discussed the problems of the different Councils in committee meetings. Findings of the committees were reported and ideas came forth for means of improving student participation in school affairs and means of improving the school in general in order to better our educational life.

As we look back on the 1956–57 school year, we can truly say that our Student Council effected a government that operated fairly and easily for the betterment of Stuttgart High.

SOPHISTICATED SENIORS ACQUIRE SHEEPSKINS

They’re never to be forgotten, these four years in high school. Although we stand tip-toe peering curiously into the future, we linger now to cast a glance backward.

As bewildered and somewhat shy freshmen we began our high school careers spread over the entire globe. In Stuttgart, our sophomore year, our most successful Homecoming dance honored our football team, 5 of whom were chosen for the All-USAREUR team. Our Victory Dance is well remembered for we then welcomed home our championship basketball team.

To give the “Stairway to the Stars”, our Junior Senior Prom, we had a few difficult steps ourselves to climb. We worked hard, but it was worth it to present the most talked about event of the year. As lofty, mighty seniors, confident in our newly found prestige, we began our last year together in Stuttgart. At our first class meeting we elected class officers and then determined our goals, our class rings and trip being the most important on the agenda. With our sights set on Rome for our annual trip, we scoured around for ideas of money making schemes. We worked like mad on a raffle, selling pom-poms and game programs, and sponsoring a dance. Thus, we realized our dream — !

After the beautiful Christmas “Snow Ball” and the holidays, we returned to school only to find more work to be done — cramming for semester exams, applying for college entrance, finishing the annual, and rechecking our records for graduation.

Tournaments and the Music Festival, where we laughed and cheered and sang, are also among our unforgettable moments.

Suddenly the trip was over, the last basket was scored, and we realized our senior year was jet-propelling to a close. The Junior-Senior Prom, Baccalaureate, and Graduation were here to end this hectic, wonderful year!

Remembering the little things that are history only to us — the crazy hayrides, the cold football games, the basketball triumph over Frankfurt, the laughter and tears, the attempts and failures, all have become a part of our book of Memories.

As we leave Stuttgart we leave a part of ourselves, and we thank everyone who helped us make this year the zenith of our scholastic careers.

JUNIORS BATTLE FOR J. HOP

We are Juniors, second in command in the school of Stuttgart, Germany. We were led into the battle of “Capitol for the J. Hop” by our capable commander-in-chief, Bill Miller; his executive, Tom Clarke; his secretary, Linda Altshuler; and his treasurer, Harold Bunshaw.

Our ranks swelled to 70, and everyone of us excelled in one such field or another. We sent juniors on all campaigns - sports, dramatics, annual, newspaper, and many others. We boasted two peppy cheerleaders, Jean Jones and Barbara Oliver. Let us not forget our scholars, for the honor roll certainly did not lack for junior “John Henrys”.

Our major objective was raising sufficient funds for the Junior-Senior Prom. The determination for making this the best Stuttgart ever had was surpassed only by making sure that everyone had the time of his life. Money raising projects were the concession stand and numerous bakesales. Through the supreme efforts of our class sponsor, Mr. Dolson, and his able-bodied assistants, Mr. Hazeltine and Mr. Odell, the goal of $600.00 was reached.

With the major battle won and hard work, tears, and heartaches that have gone into this year, we fondly look back on it with a feeling of satisfaction, and with anticipation we look ahead to that wonderful year and the final step in our life-long battle of teachers and homework - our Senior Year!
SOPHOMORES HOLD THE SPOTLIGHT

We are the Sophomores, third in command of Stuttgart High School. We number 80 and all of us feel that we have been highly successful in reaching our goal of becoming upper classmen. From our ranks we selected the best, the most capable, and the most efficient to lead us and guide us through the year. As commander we appointed Griffin Jones. As assistant commander we elected Ellen Johnson. To record all important items at our meetings and to keep a close watch on our budget, we chose Marilyn Davies.

Under the guiding hand of Miss Kone, our class sponsor, we began to ponder what might add to the school social life. Dances were planned and carried through with great success. Assemblies were given which proved that the class really had what it takes. A number of our heroes were on the varsity teams and three of our female species composed half of the cheering squad. A hand for Liz Coalin, Ellen Johnson, and Donna Miskowski! Who could have been more proud than we when Ed Lee took first place honors in the all-school Spelling Bee.

Academically, our tiny brains were fairly filled to the brimming with scientific findings of dissected starfish and frogs. We all spoke like second "Patrick Henrys" as we recited Mark Antony's oration. Greece and Rome became familiar neighbors in our own back yard. Now with the year drawing to a close we can look forward to a new and perhaps more shining year. Yet we will always remember being sophomores, and the laughter and tears, and the fun and enjoyment we were so glad to share. Next year we will be juniors, but deep in our hearts we shall never forget this year!

FRESHMEN MAKE GOOD THEIR FIRST YEAR!

It has been reported and n'er denied that the freshmen, the underclassmen, have been accepted into the honorable and worthy ranks of upper classmen. What was the reason for this? Let's find out!

We began this year by electing a great crew. To lead us from frightened to confident students we chose as our president, Lennie Stanton. As assistant crew leader we picked Jolly Girard. To record every minute detail of our glorious year we elected Nancy Collahan. And to keep close tabs on our finances we chose to trust Sigrid Lauk.

With such a terrific gang behind us we ventured from under our shells and into the social spotlight. For our Thanksgiving assembly we portrayed a humorous landing on Plymouth Rock. This proved to be a great success and for proof, even a senior smiled. With this feather in our cap we went on to planning even bigger and better things!

Now here it must be stated that although we are modest folks we simply are the greatest. Eleven of our strong handsome males either made the J. V. or the varsity teams. Eleven of our brilliant scholars were listed on the Roll of Honor. We sent numerous students to a great assortment of clubs. Our enrollment boasted 159 and having had such a wonderful sponsor as Mr. Korsland, we just could not miss!

As this year grows to an end we can look back over it with a surge of different feelings, accomplishments, ventures. We regret to leave it behind, but we now look forward to something even more wonderful — next year, our Sophomore year.

One can do most anything if one just has enough toothpicks — looks like fun —
Now, what happens — what world-shaking theory is being proved —
Push and pull — the rescue of the drowned in boys' first aid —
Future architects designing their dream houses — completely automatic —
What sort of weighty problem confronts us now — oh, well, geometry troubles all of us at one time or another —
The study of the digestive system of the starfish — are they alive —

Ah! 'tis a beautiful morning, and here we are, ready to fill our minds with constructive ideas.

Today's the Day!

Oh, oh -- Somebody's having locker trouble -- they're picking locks in broad daylight now.

Looks like Dave would rather have left his locker shut, -- he's casting a rather evil eye toward his Government book.

Poor Judy is late to class -- don't feel too badly, though -- it happens to the best of us.

The pretty smiling face of our secretary Mrs. Lehr, who seems to be working very busily.

Fly, fleet fingers, fly -- Miss Miskowski, a future "perfect secretary".

Oh yes, we're having a pep assembly this morning -- come on, you students, let's yell.

A line here, a line there, and another parallel to that one -- what do you have -- perhaps a house.
After a morning's mental exertion we've more than ready for lunch at the cafeteria.

There's always the Jr. candy stand, too, with candy, gum, do-nuts, cokes — anybody hungry?

Everybody ready now — first serve and over the net she goes — hit it back, Donna.

In the library — the book on which this studious student is so deeply concentrating looks suspiciously like an old annual.

Empty hands in the devil's workshop — but these boys seems to be keeping their hands occupied —

Hear ye! Hear ye! Sweetest music this side of heaven sent our way courtesy of Mr. Ruby and his senior band.

I wonder what poisonous potions they are concocting — note that villainous expression —

School's out at last and look at those smiling faces — What! No homework?

And this line bisects that angle proving that you two a little old to be drawing designs on the blackboard.

We hope, as we board our bus, that we've accomplished something today — and now, "Home, James, home" —
The aims of the ANNUAL CLUB are to record the events of the students during the year and to encourage and give experience to those students who have creative abilities and talents.

CONSIDERING SPORTSMANSHIP AS WELL

The aims of the GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION are to promote interest in physical education, games, health, and sportsmanship and to teach girls that sports can be fun as well as healthful.

The aims of the PEP CLUB are to promote school spirit in Stuttgart High, to lead the students in cheers and yells, and to emphasize the importance of good sportsmanship whether we win or lose.

The aim of the BOYS SPORTS CLUB is to provide a basis for the intramural athletic program. Tournaments in volleyball, basketball, softball, track and field made it possible for those boys not in Varsity athletics to participate in competition on their own level.
The aims of the CHEERLEADERS are to represent the students and lead them in all of the school football and basketball games. The CHEERLEADERS try to make SHS the school with the best morale and school spirit among all USAREUR.

STALLIONS BREAK EVEN

Determined to better last year’s record, the Stuttgart Stallions opened their football season September 21 on the Mustang field at Munich. The result was a hard fought 25—19 win for the Mustangs.

Kaiserslautern invaded Stuttgart on September 28. The powerful Raiders showed no sign of releasing their stranglehold on the USA REUR championship as they tripped the Stallions 27—19.

Stuttgart entered the win column on October 25 by defeating Wiesbaden 34—21. It was a close game until the 4th quarter when the Stallions broke open and made two scoring jaunts.

The Heidelberg Lions entered Stuttgart growling on November 12 and went out purring as the Stallions tromped them 34—7. The Lions fought hard, but they were outclassed, outmanned, and outplayed.

Frankfurt lowered Stuttgart’s morale on November 19 by romping over them 25—0. On a cold, muddy field the Stallions were unable to move before the strong Eagle eleven.

In their final game the Stallions roared back from defeat and ran over hapless Nürnberg 32—7. This gave Stuttgart’s ‘56 record a reading of 3 wins and 3 losses, a satisfying end to a tough season.

SHS CAGERS STAR IN 56

Coach Robert Gobin and his Stuttgart Stallions opened the 1956—57 basketball season in high spirits; for Jim Mays, Jerry Uetz, Bill Bonifay, Don Bryson, and Rodney Denison were returning lettermen. Jim Mays and Jerry Uetz had been chosen as USAREUR All-Stars, and now Mays had been selected to captain the team, which opened its season with a 29—3 record. The first game was with the Munich Mustangs. At the end of the game the score stood in Munich's favor 49—42, but the mighty Stallions never gave up. The next game brought us against the Kaiserslautern Raiders, and our season's first victory was chalked up as we ran over the Raiders 63—49. Away again, this time to Wiesbaden where we won again 31—29. The next contest was with Heidelberg, and here we ran into stiff competition, but the Stallions were winners by two points. Continuing on, Stuttgart downed the Frankfurt Eagles, '56 USAREUR Champions, by the score of 56—51. The Jim Mays and Jerry Uetz combination rolled up a total of 36 points. The next game proved to be a rough one. We just edged out Nürnberg by five points, the score reading 39—34.

Helping out Coach Gobin were his able managers: Buck Lanier, Chuck Compton, and Don Francis.

USAREUR AND REGIONAL MEETS HELD IN STUTTGART

The 1956 Southern Regional Meet was taken by Heidelberg, but Stuttgart’s cindermen left their mark by winning the grueling 1500 meter and placing second in the broad jump, 200 meter, 400 meter and the 800 meter relay.

At the USAREUR Meet, the highlights for Stuttgart were the winning of the 400 meter by Bill Miller and the second placing of George Burton in the broad jump.

MEMORIES OF WÜRZBURG

Just four years ago Würzburg American High School was what is now known as “The Headquarters” building of Leighton Barracks. It was a temporary location for a fast growing family. In 1955 the new modern building, which most of the students have come to know for the first time, had its doors swung open to receive the youth of America in a foreign land. At that time our school seemed large and spacious with its contemporary design, well-lighted classrooms, and extremely well-equipped laboratories. Today, just one year later, our student body has outgrown this new building; we occupy classrooms in the elementary building across the street as well. We are proud to be able to boast of our growth.

Many of the Würzburg student body are commuters from Bad Kissingen, Kitzingen, Wertheim, and Schweinfurt. The long bus rides in the early dawn over narrow roads winding through picturesque villages, the cold foggy mornings, and the time of ice and snow, all of these will be a part of their mental associations with Würzburg High.

The students have many notations to put in their book of memories. They are living in an adopted land, which temporarily has become their home, and in a locality that reflects the old and the new Germany: the vineyards that surround the city, the customs of fests and festivals, fashions, historical buildings, gardens, Residence Platz, and the old traditional architectures; and, last but by no means least, the German-American relationship they have built.

Stately Marienburg Castle that overlooks the city is a familiar sight from our skyline location, a constant reminder that below us is a city fast becoming modern, but clinging to traditions from past centuries.
FACULTY

To our faculty all of us give our sincere thanks and appreciation for their patience and understanding and for the helpful advice extended to all the students of Würzburg High. It is said that there is in everyone's life a turning point, either good or bad. With the guidance of our superb faculty, ours has been a turn for the good, and for this we give our humble thanks.

The faces aren't new, or strange to be sure,
We're not unacquainted, our friendships endure.
At the beginning of the year we had an election
To choose the officers who'd give us perfection.
A president must be blessed with insight,
And so we elected Miss Rexine White.
What's just as good as toast and cinnamon?
Our own vice-president, Big John Kiwanian
A secretary was needed to take notes for us.
For that position we chose Nancy Morris.
We needed a treasurer and that's no hooey!
And so we elected Wanda Rowe.
September 19 was the Seniors' big day,
The day we made all the Freshmen pay.
At the time we made them mighty sore,
But they all had to admit it wasn't a bore.
Our money-making project was selling at the break,
Candy and gum at ten cents a take.
Homecoming concessions were sponsored by us,
Hot dogs, coke, and shakers no fuss.
We were excited over the most important of all things,
The ordering and wearing of our Senior Class rings.
At Christmas time we sponsored a dance,
The girls wore formals, the boys dress-pants,
The Christmas spirit was felt by all,
Everyone agreed they really had a ball.
Baccalaureate and Commencement we'll n'ere forget,
Many adults say they've not topped them yet.
The dance we looked forward to all year long
Of course, nothing but the long awaited Prom.
Wasn't it a thrill when we wrote back home,
Saying we spent our Senior Trip in Rome.
These fond memories we'll remember until we die,
The good old days at Würzburg High.
Of course we feel our class is the best,
The best, naturally, of all the rest.
As we look back on the days in the past,
We realize time flies by much too fast.
After we've graduated and we're out on our own,
Then we'll realize the meaning of being alone.
Time will come when we'll all reminisce,
We'll look in this annual at those we miss;
The Mighty Seniors of '57
Thirteen total, two more than eleven.
JUNIORS OF '57

The Junior Class of '57
Had many things to do.
They gave the Junior-Senior Prom,
And showed school spirit, too.
They purchased Junior Class rings
With many a long drawn sigh.
They realized, "Just one more year
At dear old Würzburg High!"
The Juniors had a slave-sale
That they remember still.
They carried books and boxes,
And bowed to a master's will.
They sold the cokes and popcorn
That fed our hungry fans
At football games and track events
With helpful, willing hands.
This Junior Class of '57
Has finished a happy year.
And look forward to being Seniors
With the best good will and cheer.

SOPHOMORES

Those Sophomores were really hep,
They did that work with lots of pep.
They printed programs for the games
That listed all the players' names.

Their Valentine Dance just hit the spot,
For making hearts beat louder,
And as for fun, 'twas had by all,
And Würzburg couldn't be prouder!

This class was part of Würzburg High,
They helped to make it great.
And as for being Juniors, why,
These kids can hardly wait!

Sophomores find time for work and relaxation.

Initiation Day

Now here's a likely story,
That will stir the minds of all.
It will tickle faded memories
And bring you to recall
The time you bowed in reverence
To Seniors and their say,
That fateful day of reckoning,
Initiation Day . . . .
How gaily you arrayed yourselves
In colors wild and varied,
And tooted books and bundles that
Umpteen mules could not have carried!
Those pigtails standing straight and prim

Were objects of derision,
And adding lipstick, egg, and dye,
You were an awesome vision.
You took the jokes and laughing puns,
Because you were the Freshmen,
And Seniors were your daily foe
Throughout the long school session.
Your St. Pat's Dance was really cool,
Your decorations clever.
And did you have a qualm or fear?
Why, nothing whatsoever!
But here you are, you passed the test,
You'll put that year behind you.
The worst is done, the fun's begun,
May hopes and dreams inspire you!!

LETTERMEN
The rough and ready,
Tough and steady,
Boys of Würzburg High,
Have done their best
To pass the test as busy
Months sped by.
Each played his hardest,
Gave his all to be
A first-rate sportsman.
And got a letter for his effort,
A reward for a job well done.

BOYS’ BOWLING

GIRLS’ BOWLING

A strike! A strike! A joyous cheer.
Is welcome to the bowler’s ear.

Make way, make way, the clubs are here
To show their courage and lack of fear!

Man the alleys, grab the chalk,
Wait, now bowlers, don’t run, just walk.

It’s all a very simple game,
You roll the ball right down the lane.

It’s not that we could win some prizes,
But we get our exercises.

But fun it fun, and we don’t mind.
A better club you could not find!
THE WOLF CALL

Perhaps you've noticed throughout the year,
A host of hard workers filled with good cheer.
They've bustled and scurried through winter and fall
To edit the news in our paper, Wolf Call.
There were interviews, features, new students to greet,
Memos to print and deadlines to meet.
A year of self-sacrifice, good work, and fun,
Our staff can be proud of the job they have done!

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

To do a good and worthy job
Has been this group's ambition.
They've tried to help in every way,
And carried out their mission.
The Constitution, they reworked
With thought and preparation
And gave to our school a set of rules,
To put in operation.
The conference of Leadership,
The Citizen of the Week,
Activities to help the school,
Are those of which we speak.
Each member gave a helping hand,
To work the best he could.
So, we shall honor Student Council
In the way we should!

ANNUAL

The pictures are taken
The layouts are done,
It wasn't all work
And it wasn't all fun.
But here it all is,
On black and white pages,
Our school and ourselves,
In our various stages.
GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

What graceful form, what energy,
Are found in G. A. A.
If only such enthused young girls
Were like that every day!
But, oh! When time for showers come
The girls all cringe and scream!
The perfect feminine athlete is but
A gym teacher's dream . . . .

CAMERA CHARM

The beauty of laughter, the shape of a tear,
Lovers, countrysides, memories dear.
The camera has caught with an unseeing eye,
Things that otherwise would have passed by.
So treasure your pictures, consider their worth,
The realist knows they're of historical worth.

Back row: Miss Trautschold, John Wilke, Bill Taylor, Mason Williams, Bob Tuckston, Jeff Dore, Nancy Abrahms, Bill Billings, Gene Brown, Sandra Fridk, Sandra Miller, Bernd Boyd

Front row: Woodrow Ball, Dennis Upton, BillyWelborn

HOBBY CLUB

As our hobby club brings to a close
A year of worthwhile fun,
The members have their memories,
Each and everyone.

Perhaps they gained more knowledge,
Or learned how to share
Their time and effort toward a club,
And found contentment there.

CLEE CLUB

'Twas thought a band of angels
Passed overhead one day.
But it was just the Glee Club
On their rehearsal day.

THE SEXTETTE

Six voices raised in harmony
For many people's pleasure.
The memories of which, we know,
The girls will always treasure.

THE CHOIR

You take a group of altos,
And add a bunch of basses;
An ivory-keyed piano
Give rhythm to the paces.
The tenor and soprano
Blend high notes with the rest.
You now have our choir,
And we admit, the best!
The one that got away.
Now children......
This here...equals this here.

Jump!
Paper doll?
Why did you do it?

What's happening?
These are my boys.
Going our way?
