prologue:

as my life goes on i believe:

somehow,

GOLF

Our golf team did not have much experience this year, but we easily won three of the four matches we competed in. Returning golfers were Keith Smith and Steve McCarthy.

Regionals were held at Wiesbaden, a difficult course due to weather conditions. Keith Smith was the only male to place in the Regionals. He took first in Class B school competition.

Both girls placed. Sarah Lewkowicz took ^{second}sixth. The girls also won the girl's team trophy.

Mr. Conway was the coach for the golf team. Without his help we would not have gone on some of the trips.

Football 1975 — 1976

This year heralded the return of Coach George Pepoy to the football scene. His presence brought spirit to a faltering Berlin team. He brought with him the year of the chalk talk to enlighten your mind. If that didn't help his 200 (+) lbs. would get mind and body moving quickly.

Although our football destiny was not totally fulfilled, Berlin let people know: you don't stomp on us unless you want to be stomped on. There were many great players this year who lived in this typical stomp-em, chomp-em fashion.

This team may sound rough, but even the strongest sometimes break down. For this reason, Asst. Coach "Al" Gleich spent more time taping ankles and knees than he probably cares to remember. Maintenance work has its let downs.

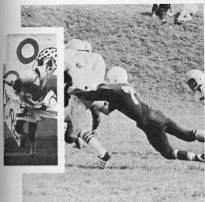

The season as a whole had many enjoyable moments, not the least of which was going to La Maison de Monsieur Pepoy. Which means "We went to eat him out of house and home!" We did. The food was delicious and Mrs. Pepoy was an excellent hostess.

Looking back it was a tres bon, sehr gut year. Power-Check, Football 76.

GIRLS VOLLEYBALL

1975/76 was the first year that girls' volleyball was considered a varsity sport.

The team had a long, rough season with a lot of happiness as well as sorrow. The girls had only one home match.

The schedule did not permit the girls to see one football game; including the important homecoming. The team worked hard at practice and on the court. Their reward was second place in the Northern Regionals. Two of the seniors on the team, Lisa Jones and Cheril Dennis were always a help with their continuous high scores, and beautiful spikes.

Without the help of Miss Barlow and Marco Reyes the team could not have been as good as it was. The girls have come a long way. Looking to next year, they have an even further way to go.

This year BAHS had something it hasn't had for three years—a Marching Band. The new and returning members of the band practiced during their class hour, through break and many times through lunch.

The new director, Mr. Tucker, has done great things with the Band this year. He comes to Berlin from Wiesbaden. Since he came here, he has helped to raise the school's spirit as well as its pride.

The Band has played at many concerts in school, and for the public. They played at every Pep rally to boost the teams to victory. In March they went to Frankfurt for the Germany Band Tournament.

The cheerleaders, well known for their high energy, trotted, jumped and cried for positions on squads. During the latter part of spring and summer 1975, the cheerleaders conducted a summer clinic for girls who wished to participate in the cheerleading program the following year.

Once the school year got underway, the cheerleaders sponsors, Ms. Amillategel, Mrs. Stimson, and Mrs. Sinnott, kept the girls on the right track, by helping them conduct bake sales, cake raffles and, most important, getting cheers together.

With the support of the pep club, they chose a mascot, Kim McClean. Behind the cheering scene, were Vicki Krahel, Clara Magaw, and Dieter Brown, who gave the cheerleaders all the help they needed.

With all this talent and support, they stuck together and cheered the teams to VICTORY!!!!

Speech And Drama

Darkness!

It fills the void, the abyss, the universe . . .
It soaks the cosmos, stifling all. The blackness is silent, and in silence it waits.

"I am alone," the stage cries out.

"I need . . ."

Brilliance!

The light of a thousand suns washes the stage, chasing the darkness away. A rainbow of colors fills the world, lifting all. The glare is blinding, but welcome. The stage rejoices . . . but stops.

"Still, I am empty," it weeps.

"Still, I hunger . . ."

Sounds!

Vibrations charge the air, pulsating, throbbing, beating the stage. The clash of cloth on cloth, wood on wood, steel on steel fills the world. Cities rise, countries emerge: the stage is set.

"Meaningless, all meaningless," the stage reflects.

"I have the day, the night. Cities are mine, and the world bends to my every whim. Even the sounds belong to me.

"Yet all of this is nothing without my children. With all that I have, I have yet to be filled. I want . . ."

People!

Smiling, crying, loving, hating . . . PEOPLE!!!

Hundreds upon hundreds, each different from the other. Now, at last, the world is complete.

The cities fill, the lights dim, the noise fades

The curtain rises . . . and life begins.

When I look at that picture up there, I think to myself: "That woman MUST have been a yearbook editor." I mean it! When the last page has been sent off to the company and everything is finished, THAT is how an editor feels. Being the head of the annual staff is not all fun and games.

So — after a two year stint as the editor of the BAH$ yearbook, I finally have some room to put down a few thoughts. They're short, but sweet.

First: For those of you who feel a slight case of deja vu when looking at this year's annual, don't worry. "Searching 1976" is, in a sense, "Memories 1975, Part II" and it was done that way deliberately. Yes, even yearbooks have sequels in these times of never ending serials.

Second: There were a lot of hassles with this annual because some old traditions (which had been taken for granted) were changed. Those changes weren't made out of spite, but for the yearbook. Whether or not they were for the best is left up to you.

Third: Despite all of the troubles, the headaches and the late hours, I've learned a few things from this project. In it's own way, it was fun. Thanx.

— Scott Hughes

CREDITS: Additional senior pictures were taken by Joe Lewkowicz and Doris Sandoval. My thanks to Joe for his help with the color photography. All other pictures were taken by the annual staff (I think).

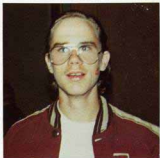

The essay on page 123 (Speech and Drama) is entitled "All The World's A Stage" and was written by Alan Hughes.

Special thanks to Kathy H., Shirley R., and Donald P.
